Administration Unveils Labor Program

Gas Blast, Fire Kill At Least 13

30 Hurt As Half Block Leveled In Villa Rica, Ga.

VILLA RICA, Ga., Dec. 5 (AP)—At least 13 persons were killed and about 30 injured in an explosion and fire that leveled half a block in this northwest Georgia town today.

The number of dead could reach 15 or 16 as there was no definite word as to the number of persons in the business establishments and a second-floor dentist's office at the time.

The blast, which demolished a drug store, dress shop, 10-cent store, jewelry and florist shop, was attributed by Asst. Police Chief H. G. Black to a faulty gas line in the basement of the drug store. Oscar Hixon, superintendent of the municipally owned gas system, was working on the line at the time. He was killed.

Other Identified Victims

The other identified victims were A. T. Dyer and his son, Johnny, who were working with Hixon; Dr. Jack Burnham, a dentist from neighboring Douglasville; Kenneth Hendrix of College Park, Ga., an employe of the Atlanta Linen Service who was in the drug store; Bobby Roberts, about 10 or 11, of Villa Rica, and Miss Carolyn Davis, 23, of neighboring Bremen, patients in the dentist's office; Mrs. Rozelle Johnson, manager of the 10-cent store; Carl I. Bitner, 20, of Atlanta, a customer in the drug store; Mrs. Ann Smith, about 28, an employe in the drug store; and Mrs. Margaret Berry, whose husband owned the drug store.

Hundreds of rescue workers from surrounding communities helped to dig through the rubble and debris in the search for bodies. Some of them were burned so badly they could be identified only by dental work. Two bodies still were not identified.

Smelled Gas For Days

Ray Tyson, 39, a clerk in the drug store, said he was behind the soda fountain when the explosion came about 11 a.m. "I thought a bomb had hit the place," he said. "But I knew it was gas. We had been smelling gas for a day or two."

He said he was knocked flat by the explosion and covered by debris. "I could hear people screaming and hollering. Then a water hose—on the fountain—sprayed me and I struggled to get free. I crawled through a hole and got out. I heard a girl screaming in the dime store next door. I pulled her out. Then I got dizzy and don't know what happened."

Racketeers Chief Target Of Proposals

Polite AFL-CIO Applause Greets Recommendations

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Dec. 5 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today took the wraps off its 1958 labor legislation program aimed at smoking out crooks and racketeers from the labor movement.

It includes provision for full disclosure of union funds, secret ballot election of union officers, tightened bribery restrictions and broad recommendations for revision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The program was outlined in detail by Secretary of Labor Mitchell to the second constitutional convention of the AFL-CIO and was greeted by polite applause from delegates. The federation executive board will take up the program at its meeting Tuesday.

Mitchell said the proposals will leave the basic responsibility for "honest and democratic trade unionism right where it now is—with you."

Mitchell said later the program has the approval of President Eisenhower, who saw it as late as yesterday, and that it has been discussed with Republican leaders of both the House and Senate.

Demos Not Consulted

He said Democratic lawmakers were not called in for consultation because Mitchell believed they would oppose it.

The administration, Mitchell said, had not consulted or been consulted on the program by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which is expected to present a legislative program of its own.

He said the proposals revealed today will be in addition to the administration's regular labor program calling for such things as a broadened minimum wage.

The labor secretary said the administration does not intend to propose any change in the present restrictions on labor political spending and will "vigorously oppose" any legislation designed to "bust unions." This includes any federal right-to-work law, he declared.

As revealed today, the program will call for stronger bans of labor boycotts and against certain types of picketing.

"Hot Cargo" Ban

It also contains a recommendation banning "hot cargo" clauses prevalent in Teamsters Union contracts.

Under such contracts the union gets an employer to refuse to handle material supplies by a second employer involved in a dispute with the union.

The program also calls for elimination of the non-Communist affidavit clause in Taft-Hartley. The President last year recommended extension of the affidavit to employers but the present recommendation would eliminate it entirely.

Other sections of the program would eliminate the ban on economic strikers voting in representation elections and authorize NLRB to certify building and construction trades unions as barganing representatives without prior elections.

Mitchell said sections of the program dealing with disclosure of union funds would not "in any way dictate to unions what they should do about their internal affairs."

He said they would merely require that unions report accurately on what they are doing.

Store Wrecked In Gas Explosion Fatal To 13

Salvage workers on the roof and on the ground search for dead and injured in one of four stores demolished by a gas explosion at Villa Rica, Ga., yesterday. At least 13 persons were killed and 30 injured in the blast and fire that leveled half a block. The explosion left the town of about 3,500 without gas service. (AP Photofax)

Good Chance Moon Will Be Put Into Orbit

Deputy Director Optimistic; Wind Seen Favorable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—Another effort to launch the Vanguard rocket will be made tomorrow and the deputy director of the project said tonight there is "a good chance" that it will boost the American "moon" into orbit around the world.

"We are in a materially better position than we were yesterday," said youthful J. Paul Walsh of the Office of Naval Research.

"If we thought we were not, we wouldn't have asked for use of the firing range tomorrow."

Yesterday's first effort to shoot the Vanguard into the cold outer reaches of the earth's atmosphere was stymied by mechanical trouble and by high-level winds so strong they might have twisted or toppled the rocket in flight.

After hours of exhausting work on the Vanguard yesterday, Walsh said, the sleek, 72-foot moon-launching vehicle is nearer to the mechanical perfection which must be achieved before the blastoff.

Wind Forecast Favorable

Adding to his optimism was an Air Force forecast that winds will be favorable for a shooting tomorrow.

"I think the chances that we will launch are pretty good," Walsh said. "We have launched three test vehicles — separate stages of the three-part Vanguard —and each one met or excedd the expected performance.

"W did this by not lighting the fuse until we felt that chances were excellent that it would go.

"There is a good chance that our moon will go into orbit.

"If it doesn't, we'll know why it doesn't, and we'll learn."

If new mechanical troubles do not crop up, the 22,000-pound Vanguard will roar skyward during the daylight hours, carrying the tiny satellite with a radio voice in its nose cone.

"Countdown" Time Not Set

Asked when the "countdown" toward tomorrow's zero firing hour will start, C. H. Schooley, Defense Department information chief told newsmen assigned to the satellite vigil that they would know later.

Schooley denied reports that test shots of some military missiles were being held up to make room for the scientific Vanguard project. An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile stands tall as a 10-story building on one launching platform here and the base bristles with other military weapons such as the Army's Jupiter and the Air Force Thor.

"Cape Canaveral is not a one-shot institution," Schooley said. "It can handle more than one firing program at at time. The Vanguard will not displace any scheduled military shoot."

Teamster Union "Goon Squad" Tactics Probed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Anonymous telephone callers who threatened to blow one woman out of bed and to bring another woman's husband home in a blanket were linked with Teamsters Union "goon squad" tactics today in Senate Racket Committee testimony.

The recital of violence and threats included a display of gunshot scars incurred by two truck drivers who refused to join the union. A third driver was said to have been beaten so badly that he still has not been able to return to work, after two years.

The testimony was described by Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) as depicting a "reign of terror" in Tennessee and neighboring states.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Rackets Investigating Committee, called it an expose of gangsterism, crime, blackmail and violence, and said he hoped it would lead to laws affording better protection for working men "who ask nothing more than to be left alone."

McClellan said in a statement opening the new series of hearings that the committee had evidence of 173 separate acts of violence during the last four years in Tennessee, North Carolina, Ohio, Georgia and Kentucky.

He said, "Only eight of the 173 acts of violence have been solved" and added: "Law enforcement officials in certain instances failed to properly investigate those responsible for the violence."

Robert F. Kennedy, chief committee counsel, said the hearings which are to continue intermittently during the next three weeks also will explore violence in Florida and Mississippi.

McClellan said the evidence "will point up a shocking pattern of deliberate goon squad violence." He said top officials of the Teamsters Union "have not made the slightest effort to rid the union of the hoodlum element who participated in the violence."

The two truck drivers who told of being shot were Roy Byrd of Batavia, Ohio, and A. D. McKinney, of York, S.C.

Ike Motors To Farm, Gives Airman Lift

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 5 (AP)—With a lift for a hitch-hiking serviceman, President Eisenhower motored up from Washington on ice-spotted highways today for a long week-end of continued recuperation from a mild stroke.

Five or six inches of snow mantled Eisenhower's 500-acre country estate. But roads were almost clear, except for a few stretches of slush and ice, and the 2¼ hour trip was uneventful.

A few miles north of Frederick, Md., the President spotted a thumb-waggling chap in uniform and ordered that he be picked up by one of the White House cars. It turned out to be Airman 2.C. Jerry Beswick, on his way from his home at Brandywine, Md., to the Syracuse, N. Y., Air Force base.

Air Violations Charged

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 (AP)—The magazine Soviet Aviation today accused U. S. reconnaissance planes of violating the air space of two Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The magazine did not give the names of the countries nor the dates of the alleged violations.

Soviets Prepare Huge Sputnik III

VIENNA Austria, Dec. 5 (AP)—An American scientist who has just spent 3½ weeks visiting laboratories and scientific institutes in the Soviet Union said tonight the Russians are preparing to launch Sputnik III. He said it will weigh a ton, nearly twice the weight of Sputnik II.

Dr. W. Crawford Dunlap, a physicist employed by the Bendix Aviation Corp., and Wayne University in Detroit, said he had been told this in Moscow by Peter Kapitza, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. Kapitza has been credited with a leading part in Soviet rocket development.

Shortage Of Engineers? 'Tain't So, Jobless 14 Say

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Fourteen young scientists and engineers, failing to find any demand for their services, rented a hotel room yesterday and invited potential employers to visit them.

The room was in the Statler, where the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is holding a meeting.

This reversed a procedure of recent years — industry had hired rooms to interview and recruit men.

"All this talk about a shortage of engineers and scientists would be laughable if it were not so serious," said one of the job hunters.

He said they had been unable to find work since being laid off Nov. 15 because of a cutback in aviation production.

The men, 30 to 40 years old, were among 20 engineers laid off when the turbomotor division of Curtiss-Wright Corp. at Princeton, N.J., ceased operation.

Most had advanced degrees. They had from 7 to 19 years experience in research, design and construction, and earned from $9,000 to $15,000 annually.

They said only four companies had recruiters at this year's meeting of the society, compared with 50 last year.

"I just talked to one of them," commented Bernard Hoff, 30.

"He had a sheaf of applications. He was mildly interested in some of us, but said he could be 'very selective' because so many are available."

At last report — nothing definite in the way of jobs.

Defense-Fiscal Views Of Demos Not In Full Tune

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration got some assorted advice on fiscal and defense planning from Democratic leaders today, including a demand that it "get out of its dream world."

But the Democrats didn't agree 100 per cent on what should be done.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) approved the administration's declared aim of a balanced budget next year, while Sen. Carroll (D-Colo) called for a little deficit spending if that is necessary to maintain full employment.

The Democratic floor leader in the house, Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, said in a statement the Republicans are evidently thinking of national defense in terms of a balanced budget.

"As between a balanced budget and a strong defense," he added, "they had better think in terms of a strong defense. We had better catch up with the Soviets in the field of intercontinental missiles within the next year. The Democrats will cooperate.

"It is about time the administration got out of its dream world and into the world of reality. If anyone thinks the Soviets will let us catch up with them if they have the advantage, they are doing a disservice to our country."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called for an end to waste and nonessential expenditures to make way for whatever increased spending may be necessary on modern weapons.

In a speech prepared for the National Assn. of Manufacturers in New York, Byrd said: "Our military danger is great, no doubt, but further to imperil our national security by impairment of our fiscal stability and loss of confidence in our government would be overwhelming."

Byrd warned that an increase in total expenditures for the present fiscal year, ending next June 30, would spell a deficit. He said he had just received a new estimate that revenues for the year will be $1,300,000,000 less than the Budget Bureau figured in October.

The latest figures, he said, came from Colin F. Stam, head of the staff of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, and are based on reports of declining corporate profits in recent months.

"This will mean," Byrd said, "that the estimated surplus of 1½ billion dollars will be reduced to 200 million, assuming expenditures are not increased."

No Soviet Defectors In Capital, Navy Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Navy denied today that there are any defecting Soviet naval officers in Washington giving intelligence information about the Soviet navy.

In an earlier dispatch from Bristol, R. I., Cdmr. Harvey O. Webster of the office of the chief of naval operations was quoted as telling a Rotary Club luncheon that two high-ranking Soviet naval officers had defected, were in Washington and had confirmed American estimates of Soviet naval strength.

Syria, Dag In Accord On Bolstering U.N. Truce Organization

DAMASCUS, Syria, Dec. 5 (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold moved on here today after settling an Israeli-Jordan dispute and made a peaceful agreement with Syria. It would reinforce the U.N. truce supervision organization aiming to ease tension on the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

The agreement with Syria was announced after a four-hour meeting between Hammarskjold and officials headed by Foreign Minister Salah Bitar.

A joint communique said they agreed on the "necessity to bolster the authority of the U.N. Palestine truce observation organization and of the Mixed Armistice Commission for more effective application of the general armistice agreement" of 1949.

No details of steps to reinforce the truce organization's work were disclosed immediately. There has been a series of shootings along the Syrian-Israele border and each side has accused the other of warlike gestures.

Hammarskjold had been smiling and optimistic on his arrival in Damascus.

"The nature of my mission requires no comment," he said, "but that does not mean I am pessimistic."

He said he planned to leave for New York tomorrow with a stopover in Beirut, capital of Lebanon.

In Amman, capital of Jordan, Deputy Premier Samir Rifai hailed Hammarskjold's flying visit to the Middle East as "necessary and timely."

As the first product of Hammarskjold's mediation, Israel today sent the first supply convoy in more than a month to its garrison on Mt. Scopus, a hill east of Jerusalem inside Jordan's territory.

McKeldin Hints He May Run For Vice President

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 5 (AP)—Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland indicated today he will be a candidate for the vice presidency in 1960.

He told newsmen at a press conference he already has had overtures to run and added, "I'm 57 now and 1960 will be my last time to run for high office or I'll be out."

McKeldin was in Portland to speak at an Israeli bond drive honoring Harold J. Potter.

The governor said he thinks Vice President Nixon will be the next GOP presidential candidate. He said, "If one man comes from the West, they seem to like the other to come from the East. It's also important that he come from the South."

Not allowed to run for a third gubernatorial term under Maryland law, McKeldin may wind up his state political career in November, 1958, when his second term expires.

He said he will not run for the Senate if Sen. J. Glenn Beall seeks re-election in 1958 and he believes Beall will do so.

McKeldin said Nixon "will do all right running for the presidency. Tom Dewey, Sherman Adams, and Joe Martin have all come out for him and I think that represents all the elements of the Republican party.

Army Drafting Plans To Expand West Point

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Army is preparing plans to expand West Point to accommodate possibly 50 per cent more students.

Officials said there is no possibility that legislation to carry out any such plan could be offered Congress for at least a year.

Behind the idea is the Army's desire that half of all its future incoming regular officers be academy graduates.

To keep the officer corps at its authorized strength of 39,000, the Army needs about 1,600 new second lieutenants annually. The present military academy, with its total authorized strength of 2,496 cadets, graduates only about 530 annually.

Boy, Sister Lose Race For Life

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 5 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy and his 9-year-old sister, taking a shortcut to a grocery store across a railroad trestle, were killed today by a train they tried futilely to outrun.

Killed were John Wawrzyniak Jr., and his sister, Karen. They were home from school on an unexpected holiday because of yesterday's snowstorm.

The two youngsters were running hand in hand on the railroad trestle when struck by a Pennsylvania Reading Seashore Lines train.

Had they jumped to and adjoining track they would have escaped unhurt.

Dutch Ouster Order Denied By Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Dec. 5 (AP)—An Indonesian government official said today Indonesia intends if possible to repatriate the 46,000 Dutch people living in this sprawling island republic. A later government announcement denied that expulsion of Dutch nationals had been ordered or is being considered.

Issuing the denial that expulsion had been ordered, a Foreign Ministry spokesman referred to a statement Wednesday by Premier Djuanda that no pressure was to be applied to force the Dutch to leave the country at present.

The Premier said the "lives and property of all Dutch subjects here is guaranteed by the government. If they wish to leave the country they will be given every assistance."

Earlier today Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Naustion, chief of staff, made a nationwide radio broadcast calling on the Indonesian people to avoid any individual actions against the Dutch.

The announcements on the future status of Dutch citizens in Indonesia came as the government asked the Netherlands to close all but one of its eight consulates.

A Cabinet decree also ordered seizure by the government of all the big Dutch business concerns taken over in the last few days by Communist-dominated labor unions.

All of these actions, a phase of the anti-Dutch campaign aimed at winning primitive West New Guinea, were hedged by contradictions and confusion.

The Dutch until 1949 ruled the 3,000 East Indies islands now known as Indonesia. They still have a billion-dollar business empire in the republic. Some 46,000 Dutch subjects live here, though two-thirds are Eurasians.

Justice Minister Gustaaf Maregkom said Indonesia intends if possible to repatriate all the 46,000 whose services are not needed. The government wants skilled laborers to remain, he said, but will put no obstacles in their way if they want to go.

Conductor Resigns

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Massimo Freccia, conductor of the Baltimore Symphony since 1952, has resigned.

AMA Reaffirms Its View Water Fluoridation Safe

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5 (AP)—The American Medical Assn. "on the basis of an exhaustive new study" today reaffirmed its view that fluoridation of public water supplies is a safe method of reducing dental decay during childhood.

The House of Delegates, policy-making body of the AMA, approved by a majority vote a Reference Committee, report voicing the opinion that "fluoridation of public water supplies is a safe and practical method of reducing the incidence of dental caries—decay—during childhood."

The action was taken at the 11th annual clinical session of the AMA.

The committee's report was based on an analysis of a report by two AMA councils—the Council on Drugs and the Council of Floods and Nutrition—which a year ago had been commissioned the AMA said, "to study all available information concerning fluoridation of public water supplies and make recommendations."

Those same two councils, in December 1951, said they "believe that use of drinking water containing up to one part per million of fluoride is safe." Their report at that time was approved by the House of Delegates.

Today, the house approved the latest reports of the councils which declared in part, "No evidence has been found since the 1951 statement by the councils of approximately one part per million of fluorine for long periods by large segments of the population is harmful to the general health."

Shaky French Truce Reached

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP) — Premier Felix Gaillard's month-old Cabinet patched together a partial agreement on financial policy tonight after teetering all day under the threat of widespread resignations.

Socialist minister had threatened to pull out of the coalition Cabinet charging the government was victimizing the workers. They were up in arms over Gaillard's plan to slash food subsidies and thus send up retail prices of bread, sugar and other commodities. The Premier put the plan forward in a move to save 90 billion francs—214 million dollars—for the government.

Gaillard said he would resign immediately if the Socialists quit him.

The leaders of all parties in the government majority held a sometimes heated 3½-hour session in Gaillard's office late today and reached their shaky agreement. They decided all subsidies should be maintained except those on bread.

Ike Formally Names White To Rights Job

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower today formally named Asst. Atty Gen. Wilson White to head the Justice Department's new Civil Rights Division.

Eisenhower's intention to select White was announced by the White House last week. The President gave him a recess appointment. A formal nomination, subject to Senate confirmation, will be sent to Congress when it reconvenes next month.

New Top-Level Agency To Boss Work On Space Platforms, Future Weapons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)— A new top-level "Advance Research Projects Agency"—to direct study and eventual creation of such things as space platforms and weapons still undreamed of by the armed forces—will be set up in the Pentagon before the end of this month.

This is one of a series of developments or problems arising in the Defense Department in the wake of Russia's long, threatening strides in technology.

On the basis of talks in responsible quarters today, there are these other points:

1. A decision must be made soon whether the United States wants to switch from the current effort to build a high-performance, militarily useful nuclear-powered airplane to a crash program designed to get an atom-driven aircraft aloft before Russia does. It is recognized that the Soviets would reap more propaganda laurels if it got one in the air, even though the craft might be of doubtful military value.

2. A drive is on to have one squadron of Air Force Thor intermediate-range ballistic missiles—IRBM—and one of Army Jupiters in being by the end of 1958. Each squadron would have 15 missiles.

3. Part of the proposed two-billion-dollar increase in the next defense budget will be used to hasten by at least two years the development of the Navy's solid fuel IRBM, the Polaris. This could mean the Polaris might join the family of operating IRBMs by 1960 or earlier.

4. Another portion of the increase would be used to reduce the vulnerability of the United States' Strategic Air Command by cutting down the number of big bombers on one base at one time. Under this plan, no more than one squadron—15 planes—of the long-range B52 nuclear bomb-carriers would be at one base. This apparently would mean building more bases.

5. The boast of Russia that she has her IRBMs "zeroed in" to hit every major Allied base in Western Europe on instant notice is challenged. Present missiles, either Soviet or American, aren't that accurate or reliable, it is contended.

6. Whether some of the stepped-up defense spending will be used for building and supplying United States IRBM bases in Western Europe will depend upon what kind of agreements are made and how soon. The forthcoming NATO talks in Paris will bring clues on that.

7. Who in the United States government would decide whether conventional or nuclear weapons would be used in event of the sudden outbreak of less-than-global war is still uncertain. The Pentagon apparently inclines to the view that such a swift decision would be the function of the Defense Department with probable reference to the President. The State Department presumably may have other ideas.

London Railway Disaster Death Toll Reaches 92

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)— Rescue teams working under the menace of teetering steel girders reported tonight they have taken 89 bodies from the wreckage of two smashed trains. Police said 177 persons were injured, 110 seriously.

Three more bodies were seen in the wreckage late tonight, making the known death total 92.

Swirling fog—the choking mist in which the two southbound trains collided with 2,000 commuters and Christmas shoppers aboard last night—still blanketed the scene as darkness fell.

Firemen hacked at the wreckage by the light of flares and arc lamps for the second night.

Piles of gaily wrapped Christmas presents, children's toys and bits of clothing were scattered along the tracks.

Police and railroad officials disagreed on whether any more bodies may still be pinned inside the twisted steel and splintered woodwork.

A railroader said the blood-stained rescue teams had completed removing bodies from the debris and were concentrating on clearing the line of one coach crushed under the huge girders of a wrecked overpass bridge.

Other authorities insisted more bodies still may be found by firemen cutting the coach apart. It had been feared many dead would be found in this pulverized car.

Yule Trade Expected To Equal Last Year's

WASHINGTON, Dec. (AP)—Commerce Department field representatives reported today that Christmas trade over much of the nation will equal or surpass last year's volume.

However, at least one of the department's field office managers, David Jamieson of Philadelphia, said price increases account for most of the 3 to 4 per cent dollar boost forecast in his area.

The field managers gave their assessments of Christmas buying as they met here for their annual briefing on department operations. Their appraisal covered 30 states.

More Pay, Less Work

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Commedienne Dody Goodman learned by way of the newspapers today that she is going to make more money for less work on NBC-TV's "Tonight" program, which stars Jack Paar.

Her pay is being upped from $820 a week to $900, beginning next month, and she will appear only two or three nights a week instead of five.

In some quarters the step was viewed as something of a demotion for Miss Goodman, with hints that she and Paar weren't getting along too well.

Beer Truck Driver Killed In Smashup

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Dec. 5 (AP)—A 52-year-old beer truck driver was killed today when his truck skidded on Pennsylvania 16, knocked down ten guard rail posts and a utility pole, and upset.

The victim was Edward R. Brandel of RFD 2, Johnstown, Pa., State Police said. The accident occurred three miles west of Blue Ridge Summit.

Brucker Hails 'Missile Master'

FT. MEADE, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker hailed the inauguration of a new antiaircraft system today as a step toward effective defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Brucker's talk was prepared for the formal acceptance by the Army of the "missile master" system for regulating antiaircraft missile firing in defense of the Washington-Baltimore area.

Missile master is a combination of electronic and human brains designed to locate, identify and track hostile and friendly aircraft with lightning speed so that the new pilotless interceptors can be launched.

West Virginia Marine Found Guilty Of Mutiny

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C., Dec. 5 (AP)—A young Marine who wanted time to "think out my problems" was convicted by a general court martial today of a mutiny charge.

Pvt. Fred D. Golden, 19, of Huntington, W. Va., a survivor of the Parris Island "death march" of 1955, was sentenced to a three-year prison term at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge from the corps.

The seven-member court-martial board convicted him after deliberating less than an hour. The conviction and sentence is subject to review by higher authorities.

Golden, who was a member of recruit platoon 71 which Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon marched into tideal swamps at Parris Island, S. C., on April 8, 1955, six of them drowning, was charged with conspiring with two other privates last August in repeated refusal to leave his cell in the brig for regular scheduled work. At the time, Golden was serving a five-months sentence imposed by a special court martial which convicted him on two counts of unauthorized absence.

Missile Credit Given Truman By Paul Butler

TOWSON, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said tonight all of the missiles President Eisenhower claimed as operational in his Nov. 7 speech were initiated under the Truman administration.

"The United States would be virtually unarmed in the missile field today had it not been for the foresight and awareness of former President Truman and his missile advisers who produced the 11 operational missiles that stand between us and the Soviet Union," Butler said in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Young Democrats of Maryland here.

Butler quoted Eisenhower as saying in his speech that of the 38 different types of missiles either in operation or under development, almost one-third of these are in actual operation.

The Democrat chief said a Department of Defense fact sheet on guided missiles, dated Nov. 21, 1957, lists 11 missiles as operational.

"From a study of this unclassified information and other published data on our missile program," Butler said, "it is apparent that on every one of the 11 missiles presently operational, that is, in the hands of the Army, Navy or Air Force and ready to be used today, the appropriations, research or production can be credited to the foresight of former President Truman who initiated the programs."

Ladies Welcomed

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Lords voted tonight to welcome the ladies into their membership.

The approved bill would modernize the House of Lords by creating a batch of new lifetime titles in the peerage, and deserving women are among the eligibles.

The bill was described by Lord Chancellor Viscount Kilmuir as a measure intended mainly to bring in more working members.

Return Of 40% Of Phone Tax To States Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)— A federal-state committee recommended today that the federal government kick back to the states 40 per cent of its tax on local telephone calls, so states can take over certain functions from Uncle Sam.

Federal aid programs that would be ended under the recommendation include those for most forms of vocational education and construction of municipal waste treatment plants.

The federal tax on local phone calls is 10 per cent. It now brings in about 370 million dollars a year. Under the committee proposal, states would get 148 million dollars of this.

The plan would work this way:

Those states desiring to take part in the plan would enact a 4 per cent tax on the phone service, which would be in addition to any tax they now levy on the service. The federal government then would give taxpayers a credit for this 4 per cent paid to the states. It would charge them only 6 per cent instead of the present 10.

At the end of five years, the tax credit arrangement would end and the federal tax would formally be reduced to 6 per cent. States then would decide whether to keep their own 4 per cent tax, change it, or eliminate it.

The tax proposal was the chief point of an initial report submitted to President Eisenhower and Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, chairman of the Governors' Conference, by a federal-state action committee headed by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson and Gov. Lane Dwinell of New Hampshire.

The committee grew out of a proposal by Eisenhower to the governors' conference last June. He suggested a study looking to transfer to the states of certain functions now performed in whole or in part by the federal government.

Briefly, the committee made these recommendations:

Vocational education—Repeal of federal legislation authorizing vocational training in agriculture, home economics, trades and industry, distributive occupations, and the fishery trades and industries. State legislatures were urged to raise the funds necessary to replace federal grants, which amounted to $33,180,364 in fiscal 1956.

The committee recommended similar action on the practical nurse training program except that, if necessary, federal grants should continue through fiscal 1961.

Municipal waste treatment plants—Future federal financial support, for which 57 million dollars is available for this fiscal year, should be ended. State legislatures were urged to give financial support to municipalities for this purpose, to improve local governmental capacity to raise funds as needed, and to strengthen state water pollution control programs.

Natural disaster relief — Urged that states and local governments be required to spend minimum amounts during a year for repair of facilities damaged by natural disasters before becoming eligible for federal aid. The schedule of state expenditures required ranges from $250,000 for some states like Nevada and New Hampshire to three million dollars for Pennsylvania, Illinois, California and New York.

Change In Road Plans To Pose New Problems

ROCKVILLE, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Last-minute revisions of plans for construction of a mammoth highway interchange near here will necessitate a second relocation of a water main at a cost of $88,000.

This was disclosed by a spokesman for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. He blamed officials of the Maryland Roads Commission for the additional cost.

Involved is an interchange in the Pook's Hill area, between Bethesda and Rockville. It will be built at Wisconsin avenue in connection with the new Route 240 and the Washington circumferential highway.

Officials said water main relocation and other work has cost the sanitary commission $567,258 during the last 10 years. Sanitary commission officials feel that the roads commission should reimburse their agency.

Officials of the two agencies have scheduled a conference in the roads commission office in Baltimore tomorrow to discuss various problems.

The 30-inch main serving Montgomery County's Western suburbs already has been moved once to accommodate grade elevations proposed for the interchange. Now the sanitary commission has been notified of a change in the planned grade of the interchange.

Toy Plant To Open At Ranson, W. Va.

RANSON, W. Va., Dec. 5 (AP)—A new toy and game manufacturing plant, which eventually will employ about 100, is scheduled to start production here Jan. 15, the E. E. Fairchild Corp. announced today.

E. E. Fairchild, owner and general manager of the firm which has headquarters in Rochester, N. Y., said about 60 per cent of the workers will be women.

A one story concrete block building, with about 28,000 square feet of floor space, is about completed and machinery will be moved in next week, he said.

The factory will reach peak production in about six months. Twenty-five workers will be employed at the start of operation, with 75 to be added later.

John Bartlett of Rochester, N. Y. will serve as plant manager.

D.C. Emergency Snow Plan Order Canceled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The city's emergency snow plan order was ended today.

The order had been in effect since 3:10 p. m. yesterday as a result of a 11.1-inch snowfall — Washington's heaviest in 15 years.

The District of Columbia Traffic Department said streets are sufficiently clear for motorists.

ARLINGTON, Va., Dec. 5 (AP)—Lt. Col. Dean Love, 41, a native of Winburne, Pa., died last night at his apartment shortly after he had walked the last two miles home in the snow when buses bogged down.

Tri-State Canners Told Research 'State Of Mind'

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP)—"Many of the most striking developments in the canning industry have come out of relatively small plants," A. Edward Brown, president of the National Canners Assn. said today.

Research doesn't necessarily involve a great laboratory or scientists in white coats, the Michigan fruit canner told the Tri - State Packers' Assn. of Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey.

"It is a state of mind. It is the stuff from which growth is made. Examine each new development so as to determine whether or not it will fit in with your production and distribution. Lead, rather than follow, in product development."

James E. Glover, executive vice president and general manager of Coastl Foods Co. at Cambridge, told the canners they need "common sense and courage—courage to face the most dynamic period in our country, courage to sit down here as competitirors and not cut each other's throat."

Many are going out of business "because of their own ineptness," Glover claimed.

"This country has the finest technology and developments in the food industry. We have one of the biggest and finest industries in the world. We have nobody to blame for failure in this business but you and me."

Educator Dies

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 5 (AP)—On sick leave from St. Charles College, Catonsville, Md., the Rev. John M. Cawley, 44, died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Edward W. Keenan, of Archbald, near here. He was professor of English and science at St. Charles and had been ill for a month.

Hagerstown Police Pay Plan Offered

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 5 (AP)—Hagerstown police would get about a 10 per cent raise and be paid for time spent in court if the mayor and council approve a plan offered today by Chief Blair Overton.

Police now get time off for time spent in court on cases in which they are involved. They go to court when off duty.

Overton said the department now owes the men 711 man days which it can't pay back because of a shortage of help.

He said a survey shows the 69-man department is the eighth lowest paid of 32 similar departments in this part of the country. It is in the lowest quarter nationally, he said.

Under the pay boost proposal patrolman would go up from a maximum of $3,832 to $4,200 and sergeants would be upped from $4,140 to $4,500. Overton said the pay plan would cost $21,000 a year.

Woman Charged In Fatal Stabbing

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Patricia L'Hommiedieu, 31, was charged today with the fatal stabbing of Charles C. Cole, 38-year-old father of five children.

Cole's wife and children live at Lower Marlboro.

Miss L'Hommiedieu lives in a first-floor apartment of the house where Cole's body was found early yesterday, propped against a banister on the back porch.

She was ordered held without bail after a hearing at which Magistrate Vernon L. Weisand entered a plea of innocent for her. She said nothing during the brief proceedings.

Chief Medical Examiner Russell S. Fisher said Cole died of seven stab wounds in the back. The weapon has not yet been found, police said.

Cole was discharged last Monday from Spring Grove State Hospital, where he had committed himself voluntarily for treatment of alcoholism.

Phone Call Record

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP) — A record number of Baltimore area residents called the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. automatic weather answering service during and after Maryland's worst snowfall in 10 years.

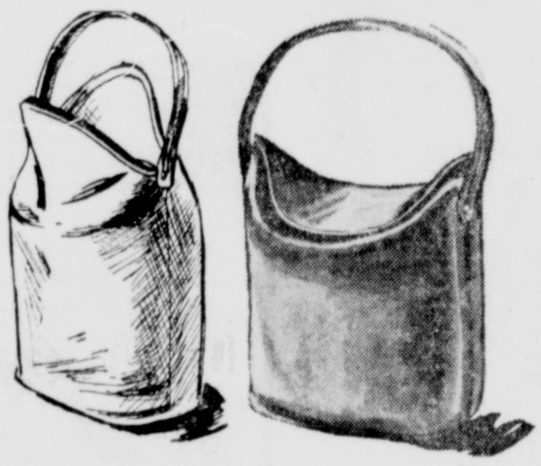

The Weather Bureau said the telephone company announced that it handled about 106,000 calls between 9 a.m. Dec. 4 to 9 a.m. today, a new 24-hour record.

Manhattan island is believed to be the most densely populated area of like size in the world.

Glass Blower Follows Hobby, Makes It Pay

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The usual hobby, whether it's golf or hi-fi or fishing or power sawing, may be fun, but it's almost invariably expensive.

So it's nice to run into a man like Christopher Altier who now does for pay what he once did for fun.

Now before hurrying out to copy Altier, a sobering question:

Are you sure you want to spend about every waking moment blowing glass to make ornamental birds?

Well, Altier would and does.

He figures only a couple of dozen ornamental glass blowers remain in the whole country. But progress—as we laughingly term that which has brought us to the shape we are in—also has brought a demand for those trained in one of the oldest of the arts.

"There's a great need now," Altier said, "for those who can blow glass for scientific instruments."

Altier was born in Italy—the Venetians were splendid glass blowers — where a grandfather practiced the craft. But Chris' father fetched the youngster to America, and all he knows about glass blowing he has learned here.

Chris got a job with a telephone equipment company in Oak Park, Ill., as a pencil pusher. But his real life came after work, down in the basement fooling around with glass.

Fortunately, the local PTA decided to put on a fair, and, looking for likely suckers, asked him if he would put on a demonstration.

Would he? Why, it was like asking a hungry pig if he would care for a snack. In no time at all Altier was in great demand on the amateur circuit and so serious about his fun that he was studying glass blowing under C. C. Van Hespen at the University of Chicago.

Finally a representative of the company who was trying to think up a way to dramatize a new glass-lined water heater saw Altier perform, and so here he is today, a happy man of 52, making birds and getting in occasional plugs for his firm.

Altier talks as he blows, and when he gets off a bad joke, he explains he has just returned from Iowa. "Oh, that Iowa corn," he will say.

Now you might think a man would tire of this routine, making birds at the rate of 200 a week as he moves from city to city. Does he still like to do it? "I don't like to do it," Altier said. "I love to do it."

And it must be true. After a hard day of blowing, each night he goes out to a hospital or an orphanage for an extra show. "It sure beats staying around the hotel," he said. "In fact, it's a lot of fun."

When a young expectant couple is in the audience, Altier may create a stork for them.

"I always say, 'I had two girls, and my daughter had a girl, so if it turns out to be a boy, remember the name is Christopher.'"

The glass blower laughed heartily. "Oh, that Iowa corn," he said.

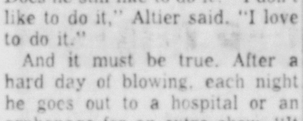

Tranquilizer For Bossy

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (AP)—The International Federation of Agriculture Producers has decided contentment has a salutary effect on milk production. On scientific advice, it is prescribing a tranquilizer pill before milking time for first-calf bovine mothers unaccustomed to giving milk or having it taken away from them.

Secretaries To Mark 10th Anniversary At Yule Party

Combining its 10th anniversary and the annual Christmas party, Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, will hold a dinner meeting December 9 at Central YMCA, beginning at 6:15.

Miss Dorothy Stone White, instructor of English and head of the drama department of State Teachers College, Frostburg, will be guest speaker. Miss White will give a Christmas reading.

Members are asked to bring food for a basket for the adopted family, as well as a cash contribution to purchase clothing for the family.

A social program is being planned. Miss Patricia Golden is chairman, assisted by the social committee.

Pleasant Valley Club To Pack Basket

The Pleasant Valley Homemakers Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Edgar Rephann, Pleasant Valley Road, Tuesday at 7:30. Members are to bring a toy for a child in the hospital, and a jingle gift, not exceeding 50 cents. Also food for a Christmas basket for a needy family.

The black stains on silver are caused by sulphur.

Group Discusses Pepys' Diary

In a discussion centering around the "Diary of Samuel Pepys" the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch American Association of University Women brought out the fact that Pepys' Diary is a record of court life and times of Charles II of England, and is considered a source of material for students of the Restoration drama and life during the 17th Century. The meeting was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Maurice Milberg, LaVale.

It was shown that Pepys' claim to fame was as secretary in the Admiralty, as he is credited with bringing economy and order to the British navy in that period. A "fine public servant," he loved court gossip, which he recorded. A recent lord of the Admiralty has said the present English Navy owes its order and supremacy to the work of Samuel Pepys.

The group discussed the way the diary was written, which was natural writing for his own enjoyment, not publication. It was written in code and was among the library bequeathed to Cambridge University, and was not decoded until 1825. Also discussing what it is that makes people keep diaries, the group came to the conclusion that it is intense interest in life, so the person wishes to record it.

Mrs. Amer Suter, Mrs. George Griffith and Mrs. Milton Beneman were discussion leaders. Others attending were Miss Dorothy Harlowe, Mrs. William Frailey, Mrs. Ralph Webster, Mrs. Morgan Smith, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Mrs. William Durland, Mrs. W. A. VanOrmer, Mrs. Milton Granet, Mrs. Howard Tolson, Mrs. Adolph Wolfermann, Mrs. Max Bastian, Mrs. Albert Eskin, Mrs. Paul Castelle, Mrs. Royce Hodges, Mrs. Granville Shirley and a guest, Mrs. Bertram Friedland.

Cumberland AAUW To Have Christmas Program

The Christmas party of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, will be under the direction of the Creative Arts Group, with Mrs. Albert Hast general chairman. It is to be held December 11 at 8 p. m., in the Woman's Civic Club house, 515 Washington Street. Mrs. John G. Thomas will preside.

Mrs. Gordon Sutherland and Mrs. Ralph Taylor, members of the Music and Arts Club, will sing duets. The former also will sing a solo. The Music and Arts Club String Quartet will present a program also. The quartet consists of Mrs. Howard Irwin, Mrs. Dana McKinney, Dr. Elizabeth Brings and Mrs. Vernon Cost. In addition, Christmas carols will be sung and played.

Cumberland Branch will hold a rummage sale for the benefit of its fellowship program. It will be held December 6, from 7 until 9 p. m., and December 7 from 9 a. m., until noon. Sorrow In Highlands As Kilts Lose Out To Trews

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Trews have won, the kilt has lost. So there is sorrowing in the Highlands and the commanders of two famous Scottish regiments have resigned.

In Glasgow there is a firm conviction that the best soldiers have always worn the kilt, and deep is the sadness there.

The crisis came when economy made it necessary to merge the Highland Light Infantry—the kilted "Glasgow's Own" and the trews-fitting pants.

After long haggling the High Army Council held that it wouldn't be practical to have both the kilt and trousers in one regiment; the consolidated regiment would wear trews.

First violent reaction was the resignation of Maj. Gen. R. E. Urquhart, who commanded a World War II airborne division at Arnhem, as commander of the Highland Light Infantry.

Despite the verdict for trews, Maj. Gen. E. Hakewill Smith also resigned as chief of the Royal Scots Fusiliers.

"To any Scotsman, particularly the Highlander, the thought of losin his kilt is in itself a dire blow to his pride," said Urquhart.

"When to this is added the prospect of Glasgow's own regiment losing its identity, then I feel this must be resisted to the utmost."

But the Army Council stood firm and invited nominations for successors to Hakewill Smith and Urquhart.

Privately-owned merchant ships carried nearly 10 million American troops overseas during World War II.

Arab World Has Replies To French Algeria Claims

By J. M. ROBERTS

The reply of the Arab world to France's claim that Algeria is a part of France and its residents are French citizens is a question, "Do we look like Frenchmen."

The Arab world is bitter against France for not recognizing the "personality" of Algeria.

To the Arabs, France's position that she cannot abandon 1,200,000 Europeans, mostly of French extraction, to the political mercies of eight times as many Arabs, is an excuse. They cite the equal treatment received by French colonials in Morocco and Tunisia, recently given independence, where the proportions are about the same.

On the citizenship matter, the Arabs, both Algerian and non-Algerian, assert that France has never treated them as equals, nor Algeria as an integral part of France.

They cite a report by a French parliamentary commission, which included Christian Pineau, now French foreign minister, and representatives of France's major political parties, which said:

"No man of conscience can fail to be struck by the misery, still unrestrained, in many regions of Algeria," and added, "Everything goes on as though the natives are mere shadows against which the French live and prosper in an artificial security."

They cite a resolution offered in the U.S. Senate by John F. Kennedy calling on the United States to put her influence behind recognition of the "independent personality of Algeria."

The Arabs complain that France is so determined to repress their nationalist desires that she even refuses to permit the teaching of Arabic in the government schools, except as a second language in the French schools.

The French-Algerian trouble goes back to the Napoleanic Wars, when the Dey of Algiers loaned wheat to France. There was a disagreement over the method of payment. During an argument, the Dey tapped the French consul's face with a little fly-whisk. The consul continued the conference, but France took it as an insult to her national honor. Being engaged in a colonial adventure in large areas of Africa, France finally worked the incident into what the Encyclopedia Brittanica calls "the occasion" for invasion.

The French now claim that their action was not against a nation, but against a loose entity of tribes. To some extent, that is true, since the Dey's control, under Turkish domination, was not well organized.

It's A Doggy Christmas In England This Year

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — If you want to put on the dog, then put your dog on this year's Christmas card.

Duchesses, dowagers and all sorts of dames are doing it.

"Smart women and smart dogs," said a London society photographer, "just naturally go together. Like caviar and champagne. Truffles and pigs. Old brandy and mellow cigars."

The vogue for Christmas cards with a canine context has brought a rush of new business to the posh photographic salons here.

With so many doggy subjects to snap, the photographers have cluttered up their studios with rubber bones, dog biscuits and miniture lamp posts.

"To help the darlings pose," explained lens lady Pamela Chandler.

Viscountess Portman — motto "A Clean Heart and a Cheerful Spirit" — carted a litter of bloodhounds to Miss Chandler's studio.

One of them, Paul, will go on this year's card.

Lady Patricia Lennox-Boyd, wife of Britain's colonial secretary, had her terrier snapped for the season.

Socialite Mrs. Chester Beatty has an early appointment for her pooch.

The Duchess of Argyll — motto "Forget Not" — has posed with her poodle Gaston before the cameras in Dorothy Wilding's salon.

"Twenty guineas ($58.80) for unchaperoned doggy portraits," said Miss Wilding. "Short dogs, square dogs, long dogs, or round dogs—it's all the same to me."

Another 10 guineas ($29.40) is charged if milady poses with her pup, as did the Duchess of Argyll.

"It gets so confusing if you're dealing with pedigreed dogs," Miss Wilding explained. "Some of them have almost as impressive titles as their owners."

But business is terrific. And with appointments being made over the telephone, "You don't know until the last moment if you're going to photograph a German baroness, or a Borzoi bitch," sighed one society cameraman.

Monastery Standing On Golden Hill Symbol Of Survival For Poles World Over

By COLIN FROST

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland, Dec. 5 (AP) — Jasna Gora means Golden Hill. For Poles the world over the monastery that stands on Golden Hill is a symbol of survival for a nation that has known more foreign oppression than independence.

Like many others of its kind, the monastery is as much a fortress as a house of God. Its walls rise solid from the slopes. From them one looks out on what was once a lush valley and is now a smoke shrouded landscape pierced by the red, purple and yellow fires of iron foundries.

Above the west wall stands an altar, open to the sky. Below is a 10-acre square flanked on two sides by shabby houses and on a third by trees. Huge crowds, sometimes more than a million persons, gather in this square every year to renew the vows made to the Virgin Mary three centuries ago by Poland's King Kazimierz. He dedicated his nation to her service and declared her queen of Poland.

Hard by the open air altar is a chapel. It holds the "black Madonna," the picture of Virgin and Child to which Catholics attribute miraculous powers. The painting, blackened by age, is shrouded behind a veil. Twice a day the veil is withdrawn while the sick and the crippled pray for intercession.

The Black Madonna's origin is lost in history. Many Catholics believe it was painted by St. Luke.

The great pilgrimages come to Jasna Gora only once or twice a year. At other times the monastery's 35 Pauline monks go quietly about their round of prayer, study and mediation.

The white-clad Paulines normally are missionaries, taking their faith into the countryside. But the Jasna Gora monks work only inside the monastry. And there, they show the ready hospitality one finds everywhere in Poland.

Lunchtime in the high-ceilinged refectory looked like a scene from an Elizabethan drama. The food was simple, but by no means scarce.

The prior, small and dark with horn-rimmed glasses, led the way from the refectory through white-washed corridors to the rich library.

Fifty chairs stood round two long mahogany tables. The prior explained that Poland's primate, Cardinal Wyszynski, had just ended a conference in the room with priors of all Polish monasteries. One result, it seemed, was the monks had given up smoking.

The great pilgrimages represent considerable feats of organization. One of the brothers cited some figures from a pilgrimage last August which attracted more than half a million persons.

In three days, he said, 1,500 Masses were celebrated at 75 altars within the monastery. Communion was taken by 180,000 pilgrims. Two thousand priests walked in procession with the holy painting round the monastery ramparts and 1,400 of them were given lunch in the refectory.

The Communist civic authorities do not make any attempt to cater for or profit from the influx of pilgrims which any Western European city would regard as a heaven-sent source of municipal income.

Pilgrims bed down in the open as best they can, or sleep 10 and even 20 to a room in private houses, paying 5 zloty (20 cents) for a chair or 50 zloty for a bed.

People start arriving two or even three days before a big pilgrimage.

Around the monastery walls stand booths and stalls like those of a country fair selling candy, bread, gimcrack copies of the holy painting, walking sticks and wooden toys carved by villagers. Crippled beggars sit by each of the four monastery gates.

By evening the crowd fills all the space below the walls and spills into the streets that lead to the town. Some already are kneeling, peering up at the altar and above it the light in the monastery spire.

A monk with a lighted baton leads the pilgrims in singing a simple hymn. He first speaks the words over the microphone. The crowd follows in gigantic chorus. The procession moves slowly around the ramparts with the painting at the head and a blaze of banners behind.

Finally, the cardinal steps from his throne to the pulpit, a speck of red against the purple, gold, white and black of the bishops and priests around him. His soft even voice amplified a thousand times, booms out over the silent crowd, calling on impoverished Poland to seek its salvation in work.

Trans-Africa Rail Link

LAGOS, Dec. 5 (AP)—A Nigerian preliminary survey team is going to Sudan next week to work on plans for an African transcontinental railway linking Lagos on the Atlantic Ocean and Port Sudan on the Red Sea. The long-envisioned route has been under discussion among French, Sudanese and Nigerian authorities.

Pre-Sputnik Report Urged U.S. Space Flight Program

By JOHN A. BARBOUR
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—A top-level scientific report, predating Sputnik I by two days, proposed a federal space flight program to land a U.S. scientific mission on the moon within the next 20 years.

The American Rocket Society made the report public yesterday at its annual meeting.

The report, prepared by the Space Flight Committee of the society, was sent to President Eisenhower and other government figures in late October, after the Sputnik launching.

The report called for an independent government agency, responsible only to the President and the Congress, to pursue a long-range space flight plan, quite apart from established defense missile programs.

Based on "the state of the art" when the report was written, and barring any major breakthroughs in rocket science, it foresaw this timetable of space accomplishment:

1. Satellites, weighing thousands of pounds, circling the earth within five years on scientific, communications, weather and politico-military missions.

2. Rockets up to several hundred pounds in weight on or around the moon in 5-10 years.

3. Rockets weighing several hundred pounds probing interplanetary space as far as Venus or Mars in 5-10 years.

4. Manned space flight in 10 years.

5. Manned flight around the moon in 15 years.

6. Manned landings on the moon and return to earth in 20 years.

Commenting on the report, Cmdr. Robert C. Truax of the U.S. Navy, president of the American Rocket Society, said the program could get started on an annual budget of about 100 million dollars.

Asked whether there had been any response from government quarters, Truax said there had been no official comment, but one source he refused to identify called it the most comprehensive program the government had received.

Copies, he said, are now in the hands of members of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, the National Security Council and other top governmental agencies.

The American Rocket Society is not a part of government. It is a professional society, much like the American Medical Assn. in the medical field. It has a membership of more than 7,000 highly trained men.

Slow But Steady Progress Reported Toward Ending Church Segregation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 5 (AP) — Slow but steady progress was reported yesterday toward ending racial segregation in American churches.

At present, about 10 per cent of the nation's churches are said to be interracial—five times the percentage of 10 years ago.

This changing picture was cited at the triennial General Assembly of the National Council of Churches.

According to the figures, out of the country's total of 308,647 churches, 30,864 of them include both white and colored members.

Most of these have become interracial in the last decade.

Summing up the situation, the Rev. Dr. Liston Pope, dean of Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., said: "Slowly, how slowly, the mending of the breach proceeds, but it does proceed, and it will not stop until the seamless robe of the church is whole again. We may be nearer a breakthrough on this battle field then we know."

But from the South, came a different view of the picture.

Francis Pickens Miller, a Presbyterian lay leader of Charlottesville, Va., said that in Virginia and half a dozen other Southern states, racial relations are "steadily deteriorating."

He said "white extremists—the 'massive resistance' men" are getting financial support from wealthy Northern conservatives in a drive to stir up "race emotion... race prejudice and...race fear."

"All over the Deep South lines of communication that had been in the process of building for nearly a century are breaking down," he said. "If this trend continues.. it could destroy us—it could tear the people of this nation apart..."

He said that despite big church membership statistics, "genuine Christians" are a minority in the South, with a majority of voters siding with the extreme segregationists.

Dr. Pope reported that across the country generally, segregation in the churches is on the decline.

"Nevertheless, he added, the church still "is probably the most racially segregated major institution in American life."

In this aspect, "many of our churches may not deserve the name," he said. "They are social clubs maintained by the pride and prejudice of man..."

Dr. Pope's report was part of a full-scale session on the race problem.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro minister who led the Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott, called the problem "America's greatest moral dilemma."

"If we are to remain true to the Gospel of Jesus Christ, we cannot rest until segregation and discrimination are banished from every area of American life."

"All too many ministers are still silent while evil rages," he added.

The assembly, the council's chief policysetting body, represents 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with a total of about 37½ million members.

Joining in a three-way panel discussion of race relations were Miller, Episcopal Bishop Everett H. Jones, of San Antonio, Tex.; and the Rev. Blake Smith, an Austin, Tex., pastor.

Dr. Pope, tracing the history of race relations in the church, said "the very notion of race", as now commonly understood, is a modern idea.

But in the days of early colonialism, and with increasing intensity in the 19th century, he said, men began to invent elaborate justifications for racial inequities.

These "pagan theories", he said, developed generally outside the churches, but eventually they "largely supplanted the ancient Christian doctrine" that all men are equally God's children, and "perverted the life of the churches themselves."

Dr. Pope asked: "Can a church still call itself a church when it shows a partiality not shown by God?"

He said that in the light of the Bible, Christian doctrine, and the whole history of Christianity, "racial segregation or discrimination ...stands condemned."

Man With Four Wives Is Granted Package Divorce

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 5 (AP)—A 65-year-old man, now married to a fourth woman, was granted divorces from three other wives at one court hearing this week.

Judge Harry G. Miller Jr., of Wyandotte County District Court said the package divorce was granted to Major Smith, a Negro, so he could qualify for a veteran's pension.

Smith's attorney told the court the first three marriages took place in Indianola, Miss., in 1915, 1920 and 1930.

The attorney, E. A. Benson Jr., said after Smith returned from World War I he was told his wife had obtained a divorce, married again and left. Smith was told similar stories about his second and third wives, the attorney said after he came home from cotton-picking tours.

The fourth marriage was performed at Indianola, in 1932. Smith now is a retired porter here.

Benson said wife No. 1 was Mrs. Beulah Smith; No. 2, Mrs. Alice Smith, and No. 3, Mrs. Lizzie Smith.

Has Ancient Gath Been Rediscovered?

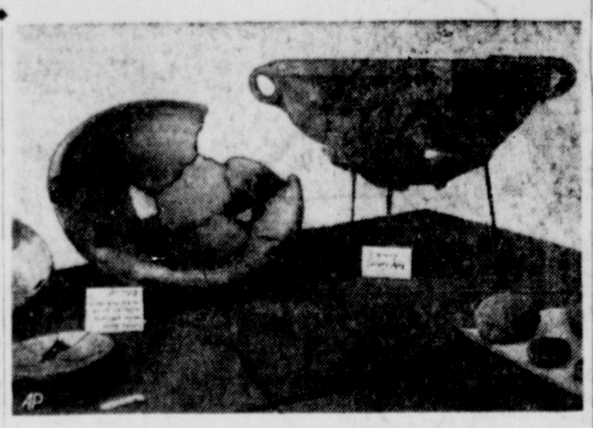

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jewish immigrants from North Africa seeking a new future in Israel have begun by digging into their people's past.

At the thriving development center of Gath on the southwestern coastal plain they are excavating a hill that is a panorama of the country's history.

They hope they have found the Biblical city of Gath, by legend the home of giants and the birthplace of Goliath.

The excavations at hill Sheikh Ahmed el Areini, directed by the government's antiquities department, gave many immigrants their first work since arriving in Israel.

Remnants of Canaanite, Philistine and Persian civilizations have been found, as well as relics from the time when David conquered the Philistines for an earlier Israel.

OUT OF THE PAST: These ancient ceramics, dating to 800 years before Christ, were found during excavations of site archaeologists hope is Biblical Gath.

The excavations, under way through the past two summers, have yielded Canaanite homes of sun-dried mud brick which date from the Bronze Age. It was during that period — 4,000 to 5,000 years ago—that the first Semitic tribes entered the country from the east.

Charred wheat and barley found on the Canaanite level will be studied for information about agriculture of the time.

A cobbled street on the same level leads to a circular platform, beside which a hippopotamus bone was found. Experts think it may have been part of a religious sacrifice.

Higher up the hill a fortress-like wall is being uncovered. Archaeologists believe the wall may have been one stormed by David when he defeated the Philistines. It will be followed in a search for Gath's city gate.

On another level, recent findings include remains from the time of early Israel, 800 to 600 B. C. There are walls of brick, clay ovens and indications of ceramic and glass production. Pieces of pottery and jar handles with the Hebrew inscription "lamelach," meaning "for the king," were taken from the same layer.

The digging will continue next summer. The excavators hope they then will find final proof that they have discovered Gath.

Because astronomers know quite accurately how the earth, sun and moon are moving, they can figure out long in advance when the three bodies will be in such a position as to cause an eclipse.

U.S. Goulash Is Fraud, Declare The Purists

By CARL HARTMAN

BUDAPEST (AP) — It's not a major Cold War issue yet, but some Hungarians think the time has come to bring a halt to what the Western world is consuming under the name of goulash.

First of all, the purists point out, the proper name isn't goulash at all, but gulyas (pronounced goo-yash). A gulyas" is both a Hungarian cowboy and a dish of the Hungarian great plains. It's what the cowboys make when they have no one to cook for them and no time to devote to the fine points of cuisine.

More Like Soup

Second, it's not a dish with a thick gooey sauce but a thin, soupy job with little square noodles floating on top and cubes of meat and potatoes sitting at the bottom.

Third, as a soup it should be served in a soup plate and eaten with a soup spoon.

The simple way of cooking it is in a big copper pot, suspended by it's handle from a tripod, over an open fire. That is, it's the simplest way for a Hungarian cowboy. He throws in water, beef, fat bacon, tomatoes and paprika in whatever form the quantity are most readily available and lets them cook until the meat is tender enough to chew. Outdoor cooks might like to try it.

Janos Rakoczy, the chef at Budapest's Duna Hotel, thinks you would find this way simpler in your kitchenette:

Here's How

Take a pound of beef brisket, cut into cubes about half the size of your fist. Wash and place in a saucepan. Chop six ounces of onions and fry in about three ounces of lard. Put in pan with beef. Add a dessert spoonful of sweet paprika, a little water and salt to taste.

Simmer. When the meat is nearly tender add a pound of potatoes cut into small cubes and enough water to keep six people from thinking they're hungry after they've finished. Simmer again until the meat is as tender as you like. Before it's done, add a sliced tomato. Make a dough from about six ounces of flour, an egg and a pinch of salt. Roll it very thin, cut into little squares and boil it in the soup a minute or so just before serving.

There are several major variants—Alfoeldi gulyas, with vegetables; Szekely gulyas, with pork, sour cream and cabbage. There is also poerkoelt, which is more like what you get as goulash in restaurants outside Hungary, but that's another story completely.

Men like their foods sweeter than women do, according to an expert on eatables. Maybe so, but don't depend on HER to buy the anniversary box of candy!

Naked Truth

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland woman "bared all" when accused of taking the wallet of a fellow pasenger aboard a bus in nearby Westerville. A male passenger accused the woman of picking his pocket and she disrobed on the spot.

When police arrived they found a flabbergasted group of passengers milling about outside the bus, and inside, the now nude woman. She calmly explained to police that she took off her clothes "to prove that I didn't have the money."

Police thought she had given ample proof of her innocence but insisted she get dressed. No charges were filed.

Request Granted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Anthony Ritchie, 56, brought into Police Court on a drunk charge, was asked why he didn't have a home.

Ritchie impatiently told Magistrate James F. Fanseen to "cut out this chatter and get down to business." Fanseen complied quickly by saying, "30 days."

The beautiful scenic slides were taken at London, Scotland, France and Rome, highlights of the continental tour. Mr. Derry gave interesting explanations as the Lonaconing Rotarians viewed the films.

BREAD BELIEVER: Kenji Hoshino, 3, typical of Japanese youngsters, enjoys bread at breakfast although it was practically unknown to his parents. As a result of such bread-eating, Kenji and others of his age group are expected to outgrow and outweigh their parents.

Japanese Eat More Bread; Kids Taller

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese priest in white gown and black cap swept the evil spirits away with a bamboo branch, muttering holy words.

On an altar receiving this Shinto version of a blessing was a mountain of various types of bread loaves.

The prayer's general tenor:

"Let the Japanese people's appetite return for these delicious loaves!"

Seated around were officials of the American Embassy, the Japanese government, and representatives of Japan's bakers and wheat importers.

What prompted this incongruous ritual?

Here's a hint. It was held during "National Bread Festival Week" at the headquarters of the National Federation of Bread Makers.

To the bakers and all those interested in selling or buying wheat in Japan is a near phenomenal increase in the consumption of cakes and cookies—rarely eaten before World War II.

The result of all this wheat eating and other dietary changes is that Japan's youth is literally outgrowing and outweighing its parents.

Statistics show that 10-year-old school girls are more than an inch taller than their sisters of the same age group before the war, and one pound heavier.

Even boys and girls born during the war, now 15 years of age, are half an inch taller and three pounds heavier.

The once proverbially undersized and short-legged nation has begun to produce long-limbed beauties, as is evident in the streets of Tokyo as well as the candidates Japan has sent to the Miss Universe contests.

The girls themselves are inclined to give this explanation for the phenomenon:

"We grow taller because we now feel free. We feel expansive."

Regardless of the reason, they and their brothers are taller and healthier and dieticians say variations in diet are largely responsible.

But to most Japanese, young and old alike, rice remains the staff of life, and as long as the nation is prosperous and crops continue good the average man, woman and child will polish off several bowls of rice at least twice a day.

more wheat, the evil spirits were repeated bumper rice crops since 1955. Bumper rice means more and cheaper home-grown rice, the grain much preferred by virtually all Japanese.

Under the pressure of cheap rice, the national daily average consumption of wheat per capita in Japan has slumped from 2.56 ounces per day in 1954 to 2.39 in 1955 and 2.30 in 1956.

The bakers, while conceding a little recession in bread eating, say they are not really worried.

Bread has now a legitimate place in the Japanese diet. It is no longer merely a substitute or supplement for rice as it once was—Japan's maximum pre-war bread consumption was estimated at an equivalent of 70,000 tons of wheat. Last year it was 11 times that amount.

A traditional Japanese breakfast is based on rice and it is here that bread has made its biggest inroads. Its great advantage, important to city dwellers, is that it does not require cooking.

For lunch and dinner rice is still king, and it can be expected to remain so. For the average Japanese, bread is not as filling as rice.

Furthermore, other foods which through the centuries have come to be associated with rice, cannot be eaten with bread. For instance raw fish — which when eaten with rices is the popular sushi — would appear ludicrous on bread.

But bread and dairy products have become the regular luncheon for 7,720,000 Japanese primary school children (56.4 per cent of all pupils) and 401,000 junior high school pupils (5.5 per cent) under a school lunch program based on U. S. surplus farm products.

Blind Indian 'Sees' Way By Sensitive Facial Vision

NEW YORK (AP)—Although Ved Mehta is blind, and has been from infancy, he has an impressive list of accomplishments.

He has learned to ride a bicycle, he swims, he can even dive if he is urged, he walks about streets with apparent ease, he finds his way with almost no trouble around a house, he has hitchhiked across the country more than once, he helps people onto buses, he dances—and he uses no cane to tap his way, and no seeing-eye dog.

Mehta, who lost his sight at 3 when he suffered meningitis, tells about himself and India in a book called "Face to Face," published by Atlantic-Little, Brown.

Now just entering his 20s, he is studying in England. Here he attended the Arkansas School for the Blind at Little Rock and went to Pomona, where he made Phi Beta Kappa.

Son of a doctor, he discovered how to find his way, indeed almost to see it, by "facial vision," an awareness of near and not so near objects through the pores of his skin. He can negotiate a curb with little trouble. He feels a corner by a change in the direction of the air blowing over him. He "wrote" his book by dictating to two fellow students.

Besides the inspiring record of his own personal victory, his story tells vividly of life in India, marriage customs and social relations, and gives a dramatic picture of the bloody strife between Hindu and Moslem.

Unity Expected In Wake Of President's Illness

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 5—The sad news about President Eisenhower cast a gloom over general business and the stock market. It has also made us all wonder, and realize that things like this may happen at any time. Believing that readers would appreciate some remarks from a friend of the President, I venture the following:

Those who have followed the stock market the past few days know how jittery it has been. It will go up ten points and down ten points in a given day. Therefore, it would be meaningless for me to discuss it in detail.

However, I will record that the Dow-Jones Industrial Average on the morning of Tuesday, November 26, was 442.97, and closed that night at 435.34. As I am writing this release, the Industrial Average is 446.03. Readers can look up the latest figure in their daily papers when receiving this release. As to the future, we fear no crisis or panic in business or the market, but there will be a gradual sagging off. People will wait until they see what develops.

I feel certain that President Eisenhower's illness will tend to make the opposing parties unite on his foreign policy and on defense. The President never pretended to know much about money affairs or agricultural or many other domestic problems. The President, however, probably knows Europe better than anyone in Washington, and it is too bad that he has had such a struggle to put through his recommendations. With his Army record, the President should have his feet on the ground when making recommendations as to defense problems. Of course the situation has been changing so fast, from bombers to short-distance missiles to long-range ballistic missiles and now to satellites, that no one knows what the future will bring forth. Nevertheless, I repeat that any political bitterness which has existed during the past few months should now be buried and we should approach a coalition government. This could be a silver lining to the dark cloud.

We must not forget that the Russians have their troubles as well as we. Khrushchev is not only vulnerable to similar misfortunes at any time but is also liable to be shot, a possibility which our political leaders need not fear today. These are not pleasant thoughts for any nation, but it is well to remember them and not think that all the misfortunes will befall America.

I personally have great confidence in Vice President Nixon. If he handles himself well during the next few months, as I believe he will, this should be of some advantage to the Republicans in 1959 and 1960. It should give Nixon an advantage over possible candidates of both of the large parties. As to whether the present misfortune will help either party in the Congressional elections next year, no one would dare forecast at the moment.

There is more or less talk about Mr. Eisenhower's resigning. As to his physical situation, I have no right to judge or forecast. I cannot, however, imagine him quitting now. He himself will want to wait through the Christmas season and until Congress opens the first week in January. If he decides to resign, he will probably include such a statement in his message to Congress at that time. Personally, I sincerely hope he will not resign.

In closing, let me say that President Eisenhower was trained at West Point to give his life for his country. He was always prepared to die on the battlefield. I know that when his time comes, he will be proud to die at his work or "with his boots on." The fact that he went over to the airport to meet his foreign visitor on a stormy day is true testimony to his courage, patriotism, and fundamental beliefs.

Poles Get Some Bright New Stores

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP)—A quiet revolution has taken place smack in the middle of Warsaw. Forty-seven new stores are opening. They were planned, built and are operated by private enterprise.

The brightly painted shopfronts make a pleasant contrast with both the "Moscow massive" style of the state-run stores and the backstreet hovels in which most private traders operate here. Behind each shopfront lies a story of initiative — and determination to stay independent in face of the state-run machine.

The stores stand on a corner site which had lain idle since it was smashed by the retreating Germans in 1944. Under government plans it should by now be a subway station. But the subway project was abandoned long ago as too costly.

To Tadeusz Krakowski, a private mason, the site looked like an opportunity. Last September he went to city authorities with a scheme to develop it. To his surprise, they accepted it.

Building started in February and in six months the job was done. Leaseholders are moving in and business already is brisk. All leaseholders are craftsmen — tailors, watchmakers, shoemakers, milliners. Each has a small workroom at the back of the store.

Krakowski joined up with seven other small builders to undertake the project. Each employs the legal maximum of five men and in this way they have a total labor force of 40.

He said the job went smoothly despite some difficulty getting raw materials and a disappointment over finance. Some of the wouldbe leaseholders expected government credits but didn't get them when the time came to start building.

Each store covers 24 square yards. The five-year leases cost either 30,000 zloty ($3,333) or 100,000 zloty ($4,100) according to their position on the site. Krakowski said 15 per cent of this went in tax and he reckoned his profit at 7 per cent.

Now, he said, the group already was at work on a similar project at another subway station site. This one would provide 187 stores. Planned after that is a private clinic and maternity home which he said the authorities had readily approved.

The prices in the shops look skyhigh in comparison with Poland's average industrial wage of 60 zloty a day. Plastic handbags get up to 420 zloty and more. A plastic belt was marked at 120 zloty. In another window, handmade shoes ranged from 700 zloty to 1,800. But it is difficult to get good quality shoes in the state stores and so to many people the craftsman's product looks a bargain.

Inside the stores you find a unanimous complaint about shortages of raw materials. The handbag maker said he bought plastics sent to Poles by relatives abroad. Some he bought from local smallscale producers.

To a Westerner, the shoemaker's store window looked surprisingly empty. Soon the reason became clear. One craftsman can turn out only one pair of shoes a day. And the taxation rate stiffens when more than one man is employed. The result is an effective damper on production in a country which needs more production.

IRON CURTAIN CAPITALISM: Warsaw shoppers stop in droves to look at merchandise offered in windows of new stores built and operated by private capital.

Shipbuilding Shares Rise In Erratic Stock Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Shipbuilding and tobacco shares ran up for sizable gains in an otherwise highly erratic stock market today.

In steels, motors, chemicals, oils and metals prices were mixed. Gains and losses ran from fractions to about 1 point. Rails and airlines weakened but losses were not large.

The day's activity left a very slight advantage for the bulls — there were 468 gainers compared with 458 losers. Among the 15 most active stocks, the bulls did much better. Gains outnumbered losses 10 to 4 with 1 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 30 cents to $159.50 with the industrials up 70 cents, rails down 50 cents and utilities unchanged. There were 14 new highs for 1957 and 33 new lows.

The shipbuilding shares, enjoying sudden popularity since Tuesday, were in increasing demand following Russia's launching of the first atomic-powered surface ship. It was felt this event might encourage government spending for nuclear powered ships in this country.

New York Shipbuilding gained 3¾ on top of 1¾ yesterday and 1⅜ Tuesday. Bath Iron was up 2⅜ following gains of 2½ yesterday and 2⅜ Tuesday. Newport News added 1⅜ after advancing ¾ yesterday and 1⅛ Tuesday.

Strength in tobacco shares evidently was based on expectations of good earnings. Lorillard, up 1¼, and Reynolds "B", up ⅝, went to new highs for the year. Liggett and Myers gained 1⅝ and Philip Morris 1.

While the big three in the motor group were very quiet and little changed, American equalled its high for the year of 8½ and closed at 8⅜, up ⅜, on good volume. Sales of Ramblers in November were a whopping 67 per cent over a year ago.

Teachers, Legislators To Air Salary Increase

Key legislation desired by the Maryland State Teachers Association will be explained to Allegany County legislators and officials at a dinner Wednesday, December 11, at 6 p.m. in the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The event is being conducted by the Allegany County Teachers Association under the sponsorship of the MSTA, according to Hayes Chambers, president of the county association.

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the MSTA, will explain the three key pieces of legislation desired by the organization during the 1958 session of General Assembly.

This includes the overriding of Governor McKeldin's vote of the bill passed in the 1957 session that would have given the teachers a $400 annual wage increase.

Another is for the correction of discrepancies in teachers' annuities and the third is for a bill calling for an additional $400 wage increase.

The teachers association before the 1957 General Assembly had proposed an $800 increase, but compromised with half that amount. The legislature passed the bill, but the Governor vetoed it.

Chambers said those who will attend will include Sen. Charles M. See and the county's delegates; the county commissioners, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Kenneth Malcolm, president of Allegany County Board of Education, Dr. Adam Baer, representing the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers, and Ivan C. Diehl, dean of men, representing Frostburg State Teachers College.

Various members of the county teachers association will attend. These include John L. Kelly, chairman of the speakers' committee; Miss Anna McLuckie, public relations chairman; and all members of the public relations chairman; and all members of the ACTA Legislative committee—Miss Mary Murray, chairman; Homer S. Higgins, Miss Gertrude Williams, Joseph Pellerzi, and F. Allan Weatherholt.

Others who will attend will be Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools; Lewyn C. Davis, and Joseph Byrnes members of the ACTA retirement subcommittee; Edward Meconi, ACTA first vice president, and Miss Yola Hudson, who is in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

The United States Weather bureau's record for the rainiest single minute is held by the resort settlement of Opid's camp in California. Almost two-thirds of an inch of water fell there in the space of one minute on April 5, 1926.

Congress Should Improve Potomac, Says Report

Congress should assume responsibility for the Potomac River and for the solution of its flood control, pollution and water supply problems.

This was one of the main suggestions made by Potomac River Committee of the Legislative Council of the Maryland General Assembly in its report of a several months study of the river and its problems.

In its county breakdown, the committee had this to say about Allegany County:

"To solve problems of pollution, flood control and water for municipal and industrial uses in this narrow area of Maryland, cooperation is necessary among this state, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The committee urges establishment of the machinery for cooperation between the jurisdictions."

Others in the county-by-county breakdown are as follows:

Garrett — Army engineers have proposed a series of three dams on the North Branch of the Potomac three miles above Luke, Md., on Stony River near U.S. 50 in West Virginia, and on the Savage River above the present Savage River reservoir.

The committee urged cooperation between the States to raise non-Federal funds necessary for coordination of the three dam projects.

Local flood protections works are proposed at Kitzmiller, Md., and Blaine, W.Va., but the committee said "cooperation is difficult" in raising local funds for preliminary costs at Blaine because it is an unincorporated community. The committee suggested that if this money cannot be raised locally it should be borrowed from the Board of Public Works.

Washington County — The committee adopted "in principle" recommendations of a citizens' committee that the State buy federally owned land along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Some would be used for State parks and recreational uses, some could be retained as municipal parks of towns along the river, and the remainder of the land "would be resold by the State to the abutting property holders."

"The canal property will thus revert to the people of Maryland, and the shore of the Potomac will once again become, in large measure, the property of the people to whom it belongs."

Frederick County — A low dam or series of low dams would result in the flooding of less land than if a high-level dam is built at River Bend. The committee does not recommend the high-level dam at this time.

Montgomery County — Further delay in formulation of a public program for water impoundment will "compound the present inadequate (water supply) situation."

Prince Georges County — Pollution is a most serious problem, said the committee. "Citizens of the lower feel that they have been neglected by the Engineers in planning for the river." Interstate cooperation to settle this problem an' "some method of financing sewage facilities" are needed.

Charles and St. Marys Counties — They "share the same problem as Prince Georges in respect to pollution."

In the report the committee concluded that "one of the principal needs in the River basin is that of water supply for the Washington Metropolitan Area."

"This is not to minimize the other problems which the committee has observed to be present," the report added. "Some of the other problems which appear to this committee to be of significance are those of flood control and pollution."

"The Potomac may be unique among River basins for its confusion of jurisdiction," said the committee headed by Del. Machen (D-Prince Georges). It pointed to the fact that, unlike most rivers marking interstate boundaries, the river is owned by only one State—Maryland — while its headwaters arise in Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland.

Attempts by the states and the District to solve river problems have included the granting of certain powers to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin," it continued, with Maryland, because of its ownership, exercising "some control over the uses of Potomac Water."

"Maryland cannot do the job alone," said the committee. Although cooperation is required of the other States and jurisdictions, "these jurisdictions have continued to pollute foully and to cooperate little."

The report said, in view of these "conflicting jurisdictions, the committee felt "that the Congress of the United States should assume responsibility for the Potomac River and for the solution of its problems."

This could best be accomplished, it suggested, by the Army Corps of Engineers, which in 1946 recommended construction of a high-level dam at River Bend in Frederick County and last year was given funds for a broader study of river problems.

"This will be a study that in comprehensiveness forms in some respects an innovation in the field of Corps of Engineers basin studies," the Machen group said. "It will embrace all uses of water as a resource with the objective of producing a basin master plan for insuring control and the adequacy of water to meet all consumptive uses in the future."

The committee said it felt an appropriation of less than $200,000 approved for the Engineers study in 1956, while greater than expected, still was insufficient to complete the work planned for 1957.

It urged that enough money be made available to complete the engineers report in time for presentation to the 1958 Congress, rather than in 1961 as scheduled.

One In Five Billion

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—Defense Department mathematicians have come up with the unofficial estimate that when America's first satellite starts whizzing around the earth, its chances of smashing into one of the Russian orbiters are about one in five billion.

Roy Rogers' Daughter Will Marry March 1

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5 (AP)—Cowboy actor Roy Rogers and his wife, actress Dale Evans, announced today their daughter, Cheryl, 17, and G. William Rose, 19, of San Jose, Calif., will be married March 1.

Cheryl attends Canoga Park High School, where she recently was chosen homecoming princess. Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rose, is a surveying company employe who plans to study engineering.

Fifty years ago the 12 southern states had four wood-pulp mills with a combined capacity of 50,000 short tons, which was then two per cent of the national pulp output for paper making. Today, 67 southern pulp mills can produce some 13 million short tons, 67 per cent of national capacity.

Wyoming is sometimes called the Equality state because it was the first state in the Union to grant equal suffrage to women.

Pastor's Ouster Upheld By Court

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP) — New York's highest court today rejected a bid by the Rev. William Howard Melish to regain the pulpit of Brooklyn's striftorn Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity.

The Court of Appeals unanimously upheld a lower court order ousting the 47-year-old clergyman, whose foes in the congregation have accused him of left-wing activities.

The high court held in an opinion that sufficient members of the parish vestry were present in February 1956, when the Rev. Dr. Herman S. Sidener was elected rector to replace the Rev. Mr. Melish, who was acting rector.

FAYETTE, Iowa (AP) — In the midst of the nationwide scourge of flu, when many college and high school football games were cancelled, Fayette and Coggon started their high school contest.

But with about two minutes remaining in the third quarter, and Coggon hit by flu and out of substitutes, the game was halted by mutual agreement of the coaches. Fayette won 38-13.

Army Offers Two Special Assignments

The local Army recruiting station has been given a quota of enlistments of prior servicemen and non-prior-service recruits as replacements for two units serving in Germany.

M-Sgt. Wesley C. Hartley, local recruiter, explains that there are vacancies in the 168th Engineer Battalion, and men who enlist directly for this unit will train at Fort Campbell, Ky., before transfer to Germany.

He also said enlistments will be accepted for the 379th Transportation Company, a light truck unit, and enlistees will train at Fort Gordon, Ga., prior to shipment to Germany.

These limited quotas, Sgt. Hartley said, are in addition to the regular monthly quota and will enable the local station to enlist a couple of extra men this month. In recent months, quotas have been gradually reduced, due to the increasing percentage of re-enlistments, the recruiter noted.

C&A Gas Flow Check Program Gets Under Way

The program designed to enable Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company to maintain a better check on gas flows in this area is well under way, District Manager C. C. Robbins said yesterday.

All of the 16 measuring and regulating stations have been installed at various points in the system.

Robbins said information obtained through the use of new equipment will help determine specific areas of growth in gas deliveries and enable C&A to do a better job of predicting future gas requirements.

Among the largest regulating units installed are located at Nemacolin Street off Braddock Road and at Federal Street in Cumberland; Garden City near Cresaptown; Vocke Road and Allandale Road, both in LaVale; B Street, Corriganville, and Gardener Avenue, Ellerslie.

The equipment has been installed by the Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh which leased a parking lot site across from the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation on Route 220 for its fabricating area.

Dravo has removed its temporary facilities at the site which included storage shed, welding machines, and other pipe fabrication equipment.

Most of the regulating and measuring stations contain meters to measure the gas; high and low pressure regulators to control gas flow and gas scrubbers to clean the incoming fuel of impurities.

Dimes March Can't Accept CUF Donation

Although receiving an offer to associate with the County United Fund, the Allegany County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will not be able to participate.

This was the stand announced by John M. Robb, president of the chapter, upon receiving the invitation to join the United Fund yesterday.

"The county chapter is bound by the policy set by the National Foundation which is that no unit may participate in a united fund," Robb said.

The national policy also disallows the acceptance of any contribution from these united funds, he added.

The steering committee of County United Fund, comprised of Lewis J. Ort, Woodward D. Pealer, and William R. Carscaden, offered the chapter $20,000 for this year's participation in the CUF.

However, Robb said the chapter, bound by national policy, will go ahead with the annual March of Dimes drive to raise money for the fight against infantile paralysis and its afflictions.

The Dimes Drive consists of canisters set out in public places and the Mothers March on Polio, where those who wish to contribute on the night of the drive put their front porch lights on, he added.

The CUF has made other offers to various county branches of national health agencies to join in the area movement.

Wilson, Getty To Attend State Meet

Allegany County will be represented at the December 11 meeting of the Maryland Association of County Commissioners in Carvel Hall, Annapolis.

William A. Wilson, the new county commissioner, and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, will attend the session.

This meeting will be on legislation contemplated by the association at the 1958 session of the General Assembly.

That includes matters pertaining to assessment and taxation of personal property and distribution of state revenues to political subdivisions.

One Injured In Headon Crash

One person was hospitalized Wednesday in a headon collision on Cooper Mountain, 10 miles west of Capon Bridge, W. Va.

Trooper Charles E. Dorsey of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Romney, who investigated, said Raymond Hooper, Baltimore, was admitted to Memorial Hospital in Winchester, Va. following the crash.

Hooper sustained lacerations of his face and head and was reported in "good" condition.

Trooper Dorsey said Russell G. Hampt, Baltimore, was traveling east bound on the road when his vehicle skidded on a curve and rammed headon into another car driven by Thomas R. Dunn of Arlington, Va.

Police said approximately $600 damage was caused to the two vehicles.

Rec Program Successful

Saturday recreation sessions at Fort Hill High School are proving more successful than anticipated, the sponsoring city Recreation Department announced.

For the two Saturdays the program has been in operation, 275 youngsters between the ages of 10 and 14 have taken advantage of the program which is for both boys and girls.

The turnout has been so good, the department said, that some changes will have to be made because of space limitations. These are to be worked out.

In charge of the program are Richard Cunningham and Glenn Wilson. The session is conducted from noon to 2 p. m. each Saturday.

The world's first known institution for blind children opened in Paris in 1784.

Marine Reserve Launches 'Toys For Tots' Drive

The fourth annual "Toys for Tots" Christmas drive has been launched by the Sixth Infantry Company, local Marine Reserve unit, and the Associated Charities.

Capt. Billy C. Menges, commanding officer of the Marine company, said all toys collected will be distributed in the Cumberland area. Last year, he pointed out, some 10,000 toys were collected and repaired by the "Leathernecks," and distributed through the facilities of the Associated Charities.

Marine reservists, Capt. Menges continued, have been playing "Santa" since 1948 when a group on the West Coast inaugurated a toy drive for underprivileged children. There are now 269 Reserve units conducting such campaigns throughout the country.

Both new and used toys in good condition are being sought, Capt. Menges said. Containers for new toys have been placed at Rosenbaum's, Murphy's, McCrory's and Lou's Auto Stores on Baltimore Street; Hill's Store, North Centre Street, and Powers service station on Henderson Boulevard.

Pickup service may be obtained by calling the Marine Reserve headquarters at PA 2-1404, or the Associated Charities office at PA 4-3411.

The first inauguration of a United States President was in New York.

Why Punish Drug Addicts?

The American Medical Association is trying to correct some misconceptions which exist on the subject of drug addiction. Many aspects of the problem have been grossly exaggerated by those trying to awaken the public to the seriousness of addiction. But exaggerations defeat their own purpose by making a rational approach more difficult.

The problem is real enough, without exaggeration. Persons who get in the habit of taking certain drugs—mainly narcotics or barbiturates—may become physically enslaved. Then withdrawal of the drug may cause excruciatingly painful symptoms, sometimes death. When the addict reaches this stage he is a sick and desperate man, capable of any crime to obtain money to maintain his expensive habit. If he does nothing worse, he becomes a dope peddler himself.

But the dimensions of the problem, as the AMA report points out, are not as great as is popularly believed. There are only about 60,000 addicts in the United States. The number of alcoholics is 80 times that. And opiate addiction, the AMA concludes after a two-year study, does not damage physical health as much as other intoxicants may.

Punishment has no effect whatever on addicts, the report points out. It is necessary to look at the problem realistically. Britain already does. Physicians are authorized to treat "junkies" by prescribing the drug while the patient is tapering off.

This report points the way to a long-range program that would largely solve the addiction problem. But a great deal more public education may be necessary before its recommenda-

Parties Only Fade Away

Is the Republican Party beginning to fade away? It is a question that puzzles many older Republicans, those who were devoted to the party prior to 1952.

For instance, in New Jersey, the Republicans have a United States Senator, H. Alexander Smith, who has been doing quite well and has a good reputation and who probably could be re-elected. Smith went pro-Eisenhower whole hog, although at one time Senator Taft thought that he had a deal with him. Apparently Smith did not recall the deal and in politics that often happens. Also Smith followed the Eisenhower line right down the middle on the unpleasant subject of Joe McCarthy, although Joe expected different from Smith.

So the record is that Smith has been pro-Eisenhower, giving the Modern Republicans his all. Now, however, when Smith has a chance for re-election, he is being bumped off politically in the interest of Bernard Shanley, one of President Eisenhower's secretaries who wants to be Senator. The reason given for pushing Senator Smith out is that he is too old, being 77 years old. However, Senator Green of Rhode Island is 90 and can still dance with a pretty lass.

The bumping off of Senator Smith has produced a free-for-all in New Jersey. Instead of party unity being produced, candidates are springing up all over the place. What undoubtedly will happen is that three or four will be in the finals and probably the Democrats will win. At any rate, bumping Senator Smith off because he is too old is not good politics because, apart from everything else, there are a lot of voters these days who might be called too old.

In New York City, the Republicans got themselves roundly trounced in the last mayoralty election. They had no money for a campaign, no workers, no issue, no leadership. Their candidate, Robert Christenberry, a hotel man, is a fine fellow, well met, but no politician. The only way he could have won was to have engaged in a fighting campaign in the course of which he established beyond peradventure the shame of municipal corruption to such a degree that even the gangsters would be chagrined. He established nothing and maybe there is nothing to establish.

So the Republicans displayed unusual weakness and ineptitude and many of the citizens wondered where they were until they got to rowing among themselves which made them ludicrous. Into this situation stepped John Roosevelt, a son of the late and lamented Franklin D. Roosevelt. John, unlike his father and brothers, calls himself a Republican and has ambitions to political glory thereby. At any rate, Republicans in New York never heard of him before as belonging to them but there is no rule against it.

However, like most Roosevelts, he is in a hurry to take over and those who have spent years trying to keep the show on the road wonder how he came in. At any rate they feel that he might take his turn at the end of the line like anybody else. So that is one fight.

Another is that Senator Jacob Javits, having shocked the country by his sponsorship of the astonishing appointment of Maxwell Gluck to be Ambassador to Ceylon, has been insisting that a pal of his, Samuel Roman, be made Postmaster, which is a good job that for one reason or another has too long been vacant. Most Republicans are opposed to Roman for this or that reason, some of which may be valid. So to clarify their opposition, they propose that Mrs. Caroline Simon be given the post as a reward for getting more votes than anybody else on the Republican ticket.

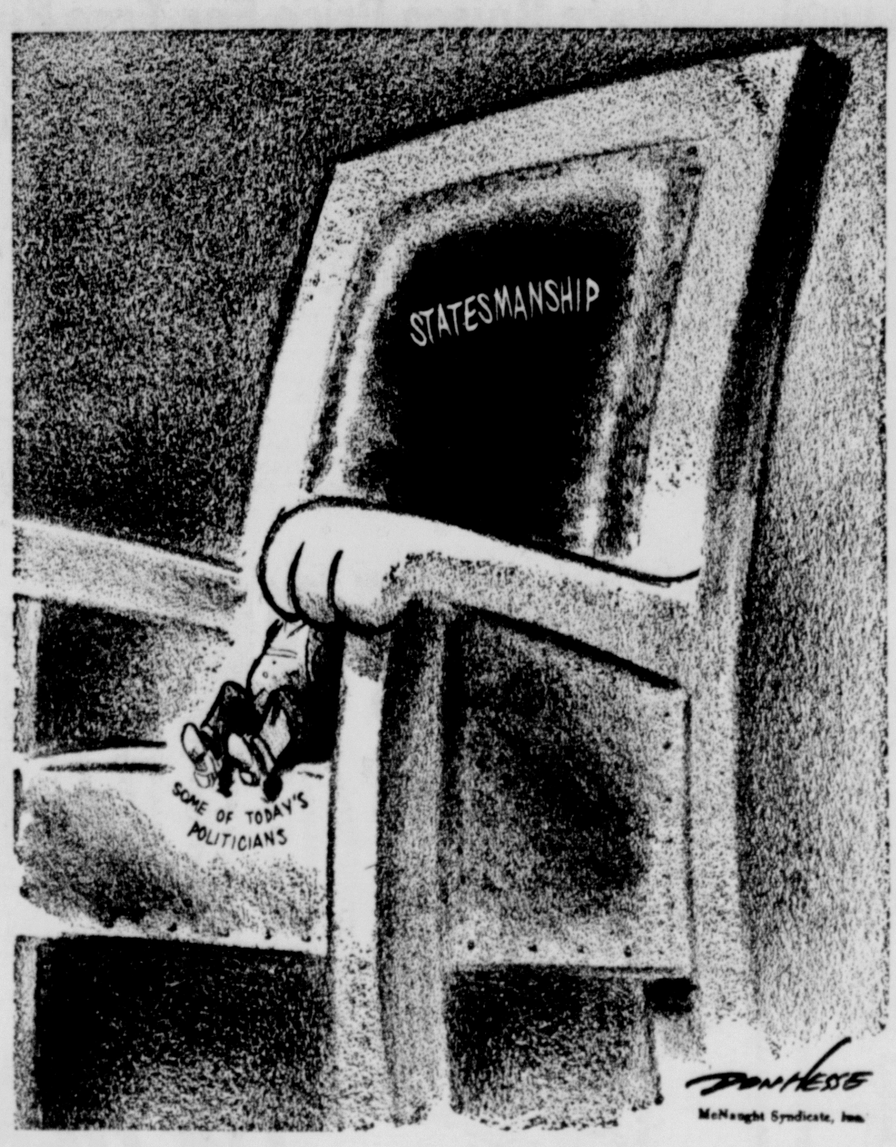

Mrs. Simon is a do-gooder and very popular and it is difficult to see how anyone can oppose her, because she is also very efficient or is that an objectionable quality for a Post Office appointment?

Another fight is over the Governorship. Republican candidates are proliferating like the stars in the heavens. Several millionaires are mentioned, in the hope that the party might get some money. Also, former Attorney General Brownell is mentioned. Also some suggest Benjamin Javits, the elder and smart brother of Senator Jacob Javits. Put it as you wish, if the Republicans continue to quarrel, it is likely that the Democrat, Averell Harriman, will be re-elected.

In the aforementioned states, the Democrats are not quarrelling.

Governor Knight Of California Is A Lonely, Embatted Man

By Drew Pearson

LOS ANGELES — J. Goodwin Knight, Governor of California, paced the floor of the ancient, gabled executive mansion in Sacramento. His fists were clenched. His expression was not happy.

"I cleaned up the Samish liquor license scandals," he told friends who sat watching his tense pacing. "I cleaned up the Gus Johnson banking mess. There hasn't been one taint of scandal or dishonesty connected with my administration. Yet they won't give me a second term.

"I kept peace between labor and management," he continued. "But they won't give me a second term.

"True, I haven't got water for 'em. But only God can give us water, and short of God I did my best. I'm ready to call a special session of the Legislature tomorrow to consider water. There isn't a thing I haven't done for the state and people of California. But they won't give me a second term."

The Governor of California is a lonely man these days. He is also a sad and shamed man. What he said is true. He has conducted an honest administration. He has been a good Governor.

And the manner in which they deprived him of a second term goes to the roots of the worst influence in American politics today—money. It's the fact that a few wealthy men can pick who runs for governor or the Senate in many states of the union. Goody Knight a few months ago was bubbling over with enthusiasm. His political future was bright. He was married to a new, lovely wife, a great joy and asset. They were a great team, politically and personally. They even did parlor tricks to entertain their friends.

Since the age of 19 Goody's great ambition had been to be Governor of California. He had been a good Governor. Yet he couldn't be Governor any more. The big bankers, the big-money boys he had counted on for campaign funds, had shut off his water. They favored the Nixon-arranged deal to make Senator Knowland the next Governor of California.

Johnson Beat Bosses

Forty years before, another Governor of California had paced the floor of the same ancient, gabled executive mansion in Sacramento. He was Hiram Johnson, and he too had been challenged by the big-money boys of California.

They then operated under the name of "the Southern Pacific machine" and they too decreed who should sit in the Governor's mansion in Sacramento. They opposed Hiram Johnson but, unlike Goody Knight, Hiram refused to bow. He accepted the challenge and with the help of William Randolph Hearst routed the big-money bosses.

That victory helped to bring about the direct primary, by which political candidates were nominated by direct vote of the people, not by a few men sitting in banks or railroad offices or smoke-filled rooms.

Gov. Goody Knight, arriving in Washington to formally announce his bow to the big-money bosses, registered at the same hotel on the same night with George Wharton Pepper, gnarled, frail, and 90. He came to Washington to receive a tribute from old friends. Bent in body but not in spirit, he had been defeated by the bosses, but never bowed to them.

Goody Knight called at the White House that day, conferred with Nixon and bowed. He bowed out of the race for Governor of California.

On the surface he may have been right. He knew that a million dollars had been spent in the last campaign to elect Knowland to the Senate, and that Knowland would have at least a million to back him for Governor. He knew that the public, once indignant over $200,000 spent by Vare in Pennsylvania and $100,000 spent by Smith in Illinois, now didn't bat an eye at $1,000,000 spent in a California primary. He knew the public had lost its sense of moral indignation.

He also knew that Bill Keck of Superior Oil, who put up the $2,000 to try to bribe Sen. Francis Case of South Dakota never was prosecuted, though his henchmen were. Keck has been one of the heaviest contributors in California primaries. So have other oil operators. He knew that Sen. Lyndon Johnson had kept the clean election bill carefully pigeonholed in the Senate.

He might have remembered that Hiram Johnson bucked the bosses and won. He might also have remembered how Harry Truman in 1948 bucked the bankers and the big-money boys and also won.

But if he did he didn't follow their example. Governor Knight bowed out.

In so doing he may have done the American public a service. He may have awakened them to the fact that the direct primary, as an instrument of thwarting the bosses, is now as dead as the dodo.

Mr. Gray Faces The Future Sensibly

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The handwriting on the wall — the prospect that next year may see more unemployed than in any year since the 1930s — is being realistically faced by Richard J. Gray, head of the building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO, as he recommends a suspension of wage increases for 1958.

It is true that the other labor leaders at the Atlantic City convention have coldly rejected any such suggestion. They never made a bigger mistake. Unemployment, it is estimated by some economists, will run between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 by next spring. Had the labor leaders generally agreed with Mr. Gray, the whole atmosphere in the economic situation throughout the country would have changed overnight from pessimism to optimism.

For the biggest issue before the country in 1958, as it approaches the Congressional elections in November, will be: "Who killed American prosperity and brought on the recession?"

Labor-union leadership will have to bear the brunt of the blame. Certainly as the profits of corporations are studied — and they have been dropping drastically for several months in many lines — the favorite excuse for wage hikes, namely that corporate profits are high, will be absent. There used to be a time when labor leaders agreed with the philosophy that wage increases should be accompanied by a corresponding rise in the productivity of labor per hour. But that has been superseded by the grab-while-you-can doctrine which insists that corporate profits must be shared with labor irrespective of whether there is an adequate surplus being accumulated to meet the needs of future expansion or "rainy days" ahead.

The responsibility for the present "recession," and what could turn into a "depression" before the end of 1958, is upon those who have frustrated the natural growth of the free-enterprise system.

Nor is any form of state socialism going to be the answer if the Republicans are driven from power by the economic downturn.

The signs point to a different kind of political reaction next time if "recession" deepens into depression." The Democratic Party, one of whose potential candidates — Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts — has not hesitated in recent months to help expose labor-union rackets, may find itself compelled to dig deeper into the misuse of economic power by national labor unions.

For the present "recession" is directly due to lack of capital formation. Other setbacks have been caused in the past either by excessive speculation or by inventory accumulation beyond demand, but today's recession is largely due to the inability of people and corporations to save enough due to high prices.

The cry from the companies is that profit margins have been squeezed by high labor costs. Yet taxes of all kinds remain high. Any economy in which the federal government takes every year 52 per cent of the earnings of corporations, apart from state and local taxes, isn't healthy.

The cry from the individual citizen is that the cost of living is too high. Prices of all kinds are rising and "inflation" is blamed. But the principal cause of the continued inflation is the unrelenting pressure for wage increases every year irrespective of whether they are deserved. In the year 1957, for instance, the built-in "escalator" clauses in union contracts and the size of the regular demands annually for more pay resulted in the largest total number of wage increases in American history.

The cost of articles bought by the consumer has risen in turn so that the economy has become involved in a vicious circle. The Federal Reserve Board has tried to stop the "inflation spiral" by tightening money rates. But this is only one factor. Labor costs have aggravated the inflation. The net effect has been to slow down the wheels of the economy itself in the face of an increasing population and many unsatisfied demands for goods.

The labor-union leaders who disagree with Mr. Gray are saying that what is needed is more purchasing power for the individual. This is reminiscent of the doctrine that held back recovery in the 1930s when "made work" and "leaf-raking' 'projects were given a preference over the encouragement of capital goods expansion.

Today there's a retardation of the growth of building and plant. It's due to the lack of capital derived from savings. Many individuals have been spending too much for luxuries and for installment purchases and have not been saving enough. Repossessions of automobiles, due to the buyer's inability to pay, are running at a high rate. Many corporations have been faced with high costs and have been unable to save enough out of the year's profits to finance their own expansion. Depreciation reserves are not adequate.

If recovery is to be brought about as early as 1959, the Congress will have to do something soon about restricting industry-wide price fixing by labor unions. Smart labor leaders will see the handwriting on the wall and begin to curtail the wage-increase routine at least for the year 1958. It could save the country from widespread unemployment—surely a major concern for labor leaders — and from the financial losses that a deep depression could bring.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

It was this stack of ad-libbered play-backs that minted the gag, "Business as usual during altercations."

It was okay for our European pen-pals to supply the Chinese Commies with munitions while we were trying to keep our head even with our ears.

But when we sell ammo to the Near East there's a squawk that would crack an opera house.

It all depends on whose bull is being goulashed. The chickens have come home to roost on the other shoe.

We broached many a portfolio on the Chinese underground arsenals. But it got us no further than a dive in the kitchen sink.

Matter of detailed conjecture is all the wars since 1914 have been quarter-mastered by star-spangled logistics.

Our slogan in these embrawlios has been the same as volunteer firemen. Keep 'er going until we get there.

They usually do. And so do we.

Plenty Of Quack 'Cures' For Arthritis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It has been said that quacks exist to kill off stupid people. Charlatans always have flourished and will continue to, so long as we remain gullible. The arthritic has been one of their main sources of revenue. This is understandable because victims of chronic diseases will grasp at any straw.

Some carry a buckeye in their pocket or a gold key on their watch chain, or wear a wire spring on arm or leg. A vrilium tube was sold in Chicago for $50 as a cure for rheumatic pains. The promoters were a woman florist and a taxicab driver with no experience in electronics or medicine. The tube was a dumbbell shaped plastic container that cost about 50 cents to make. It contained a small amount of calcium salts. What were the claims? "It will expand the hydrogen atoms of your being" was the senseless statement that mystified and impressed the suckers.

One of today's best sellers is on arthritis. The author claims to have helped his mother by oiling her joints. He knew nothing about arthritis or medicine but claimed to be an expert because he studied "the premedical course" at Trinity College and later took courses at Columbia University. The author describes himself as "a medical technologist who devoted 15 years of his life to research work."

According to a magazine story, he was not a premedical student but took a precollege (high school level) course in mathematics, made a grade of 71, and dropped out. He attended a class at Columbia for a few weeks and dropped it. An obscure diploma mill in England sent him a Ph. D. degree in the mail. In appreciation he sent them a check for $100.

He was a private first class in the air force and was sent to San Antonio for three months; while there he became interested in arthritis. He wrote to a man at the army and navy general hospital in Hot Springs, asking him questions. The man was too busy to answer but said to come down and see for himself if he wished. He did—for almost a whole day.

And this is the man who claims to be qualified as an expert in the treatment of arthritis. The Federal Trade Commission, according to the magazine, is investigating his background and the claims made in his book.

EARLY MORNING WHEEZING

L. K. writes: Why does my husband always get his attacks of asthma between 4 and 6 a. m.?

REPLY

Asthma during the wee small hours usually is due to a drop in temperature of the bedroom or to an allergy to an irritant in the pillows, mattress, or bedding. The culprit often can be determined by skin tests. Asthma of heart origin also occurs at this time, because, with rest, it is natural for the pulse to slow down and the blood pressure to drop.

NASAL DISEASE

C. F. writes: Is there a disease of the nose that cannot be noticed by the victim but is detected by others?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge, except for ozena in which an odor is given off that the victim cannot smell. But the sufferer can hardly be unaware of the disorder because the lining of the nose is covered with large green crusts.

BREATHING IN SLEEP

S. P. H. writes: During his sleep my husband holds his breath and a minute or so later starts gasping for air. I have watched and listened to this for two years. Do you know the reason for this condition?

REPLY

Breathing patterns during sleep vary and there is no need for concern since your husband has survived these episodes for two years. It is impossible to die of suffocation by holding the breath because the muscles of the chest and diaphram relax the moment unconsciousness occurs.

TOMORROW: Letters from our readers.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped enlevope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A convivial soul left the convention at 3:30 a.m. and was deposited on his doorstep by a considerate taxicab driver at 3:58. He had almost made it to his room when his wife's prized cuckoo clock sounded four times. The husband promptly cuckooed four more times, called out "Heigh ho, it's off to work I go!"—and hastily exited from the house.

That night his wife reported, "I've decided to get rid of that cuckoo clock. Last night it cuckooed four times, tripped over a chair, mumbled 'Nuts!' then cuckooed four times more!"

The late Arturo Toscanini once played host to Yehudi Menuhin. The latter was in the middle of a violin sonata when a phone in the hall began to ring. The maestro motioned to Menuhin to continue playing, picked up a pair of scissors, cut the phone wire in two, then leaned back happily once more to listen to the music.

Waltz With A Bear

By Joseph Alsop

DAMASCUS, Syria

It is entirely possible for two nations to work together intimately, each with the happy conviction that the other is being used.

Or, putting it another way, one can imagine a self-willed zoologically ignorant young lady going for a waltz with a bear, simply because the bear happened to be dancing in the direction of the ladies' room and she wanted a way cleared through the press of the dance.

That seems to be about the only image that conveys the complex nuances of the strange situation here in Syria. Almost every statement you can make about it is both true and untrue, simply because the Soviets and Syrians are working together from such widely different motives.

For example, this correspondent reported from Turkey that the Syrians were preparing a potential base for Soviet ground forces. He therefore owes the Syrians an apology on two counts.

On the one hand, Ankara's official figures on Soviet deliveries of military supplies were almost certainly grossly exaggerated. Instead of half a million tons since last March, actual Soviet deliveries to Syria in this period have amounted to only about 150,000 tons. When the Syrian Foreign Minister, Salah Bitar, and the Syrian Chief of Staff, Afif Al Bizri, angrily assert they are only buying the supplies their own army needs, they are speaking the truth as they know it.

On the other hand, the tendency of armies like the Syrian army to go on wild shopping sprees when they have the chance is too well known to need underlining. Even at the level of 150,000 tons, the pattern of Soviet deliveries to Syria indicates a Kremlin desire to have a potential base for Russian forces here. If the Kremlin trumps up a great Arab-Israeli crisis, for example, the Syrians will have the greatest difficulty in resisting a loving Soviet offer "to aid them in repelling aggression."

Again, it is easy to describe the present Syrian government as "Communist-dominated." The two most powerful men in Syria, the President of the Parliament, Akram Hourani, and the Army Intelligence Chief, Col. Abdelhamid Serraj, are the real authors of the policy of collaboration with the Soviets. Gen Bizri, whose appointment as the new army Chief of Staff climaxed the recent left-wing coup d'etat, will not even directly deny the widespread reports that he is an active member of the Communist Party. He says, instead:

"I was called a Nazi because I went to Iraq to fight for Rashid Ali Al Gailani (the Nazi agent who tried to oust the British at the beginning of the last World War). Now I am called a Communist because I am still fighting imperialism. I shall go on fighting imperialism whether your Mister Dulles calls me a Communist or not."

But the hot-eyed and defiant Gen. Bizri, whom his interpreter customarily describes as "his Highness, the General," has a deep grievance against the West dating from the time when his rich and important family were driven out of Sidon by the French. As his record indicates, he is also one of these violent and ambitious men who are apt to fly to extremes. Even if he is a Party member, he certainly does not belong in the tried-and-true category.

As for the much more important Hourani and Serraj, they are leftwing nationalists, not Communists. Soviet aid serves their purposes, but as leaders of the left-wing nationalist Baath Party, they fear the gains the Communists are making in the Syrian cities. Hourani recently put off long-promised city elections for this very reason. And precisely because the Kremlin has chosen to work through the non-Communists, Hourani and Serraj, the more sincere Syrian Communists have recently staged an unsuccessful uprising against their leader, the always obedient servant of the Kremlin, Khalid Bagdash.

Once again, Hourani and Serraj serve the Kremlin. Their brand of left-wing nationalism in effect aims to destroy every Western friend and every Western vital interest throughout the Middle East. Because they want to do what the Kremlin wants to have done, they are most useful Soviet instruments.

But Hourani and Serraj are by no means conscious instruments. They are among the ablest and most courageous men in the Middle East. They think the Soviets are their instruments. Hourani, moreover, is now trying to launch just the kind of broad and basic program of social reconstruction that has always been needed as a solid foundation of Arab nationalism. In this he is miles ahead of Egypt's President Nasser.

If it were at all possible to come to terms with Hourani and Serraj, it would be very desirable, both for the West itself and the West's more flexible and tough-minded Middle Eastern friends like King Hussein of Jordan. There is a double hooker in this, however.

The courtship of a young lady already waltzing with a bear is inherently difficult. And even though the young lady may sincerely believe she is only heading for the ladies' room, the bear is much more likely to choose their ultimate destination.

Drainage Pipe Bids Sought

An effort will be made to settle a much-discussed drainage problem at the Valley High School athletic field in Lonaconing when bids are received by the Allegany County Board of Education until 2:30 p.m. next Wednesday for furnishing and constructing an underground drainage line at the field.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish all specified materials, equipment and labor to dig a trench, lay a pipe line, caulk the joints, construct inlets, install grates, backfill and grade.

Materials for the job will include 110 lineal feet of 15-inch reinforced concrete drainage pipe, 210 lineal feet of 18-inch pipe and 112 feet of 20-inch pipe. The line will be laid along the north end of the athletic field, which is just north of the school.

For several months, supporters of the Lonaconing school have been arguing with members of the County Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster for improvement of the drainage conditions.

State Raises Price For Tree Planting In County

A report on the meeting last week of top officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks was given yesterday by William H. Johnson, district forester here. The sessions were at the U. S. Forest Service Experimental Station at Beltsville.

Johnson said it was decided to increase the price of planting trees by machine on private land from $10 to $13 per acre in Western Maryland. The cost was raised on the Eastern Shore from $12.50 to $16 per acre. Increased material, labor and machinery costs made the higher prices mandatory, Johnson reported.

Dr. Jesse Dillar, plant pathologist at Beltsville with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, spoke on the attempts to revive the chestnut tree in America since the blight of years ago decimated these nut-bearing trees.

Dr. Dillar said the prospects of the native American chestnut overcoming the effects of the blight are very poor. He also told of the grafting and Chinese and other Asiatic strains of chestnuts on native trees. This has produced some fine results, but only as far as the trees will bear chestnuts. These hybirds are not so good as sources of timber.

The chestnut blight, which started about 1920 in New York state and soon covered the entire eastern United States, killed off millions of stately chestnut trees. Their loss also hurt the propagation of wildlife such as squirrels.

An appeal for chestnuts from some of the few American trees still standing has resulted in many stands of these survivors of the blight being plotted and their locations listed on a map, Dr. Dillar said. Some of these locations are in Western Maryland, he added.

Others who spoke at the three-day meeting were Harry Dengler, extension forester at the University of Maryland, who told of marketing of timber products. Richard Jones, director of Region No. 7 of the U. S. Forest Service at Philadelphia, spoke on the laws creating the cooperative forest management program in the various states. He also discussed small watershed development in cooperation with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. This program has done much to curtail the effects of erosion in many watersheds.

Teacher Panel Proves Popular At PTA Session

ACCIDENT — A panel discussion on problems in school will feature the meeting of Northern Parent-Teacher Association on January 9, because of the popularity of a similar program held at the November 14 session.

At that meeting, a panel of 10 teachers of the school faculty answered questions of parents about the school program. Parents with questions about the curriculum and school activities can have them discussed at the January meeting, officers said.

The PTA made plans for a donkey basketball game and considered a project to buy a public address system for the gymnasium.

In only three of the 12 phases did the majority say that our schools are preparing young people very well. Sixty-nine per cent said very well on knowing right from wrong, 64 per cent on the question of getting along with other people and 60 per cent to be good citizen and intelligent voter.

The 650 who answered the questionnaires prepared for the recent Cumberland Business Leaders' Conference included 321 from Fort Hill, 219 from Allegany, 58 from LaSalle, 24 from Ursuline, 16 from Catholic Girls' Central and 12 from St. Mary's.

Clubs Can Aid Senior Citizens

Cumberland service clubs can help the Senior Citizens Club widen the scope of its program for local residents beyond the age of 65 years.

That view was expressed yesterday by Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant to the city recreation director, at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

She explained that the club now has a membership of about 50 men and women, who meet twice a month on Thursday afternoons at the Elks Club. The club members sing, dance, play games, discuss hobbies and engage in a number of activities to keep their leisure hours happy.

Mrs. Hogan said the Kiwanis Club and other local groups might assist by providing facilities for Senior Citizens Club activities, by providing transportation to special events such as picnics, by presenting programs for the club and by interesting more senior citizens in joining the club.

Bakery Employe Slightly Burned

An Ort's Bakery employe was slightly burned in an accident yesterday about 2:40 p. m. when accumulated gas in a rack dryer caught fire when the worker attempted to light the dryer.

George Crowe of LaVale was injured when the small gas explosion blew open the dryer doors and set off the ceiling sprinkler system in the building.

East Side Fire Station answered the alarm at 2:39 p. m. and stood by until the sprinkler head was replaced.

Priest lake, Idaho, was named for a priest, Father Johann Phillip Roothan.

Rummage Sale To Aid Fund For Library

Frostburg Groups Continue Drive

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Bernard Kelly, chairman of the rummage sale committee of St. Martha's Guild of St. John's Episcopal Church, has announced that the guild will add the clothes left over from the recent Rotary Club auction, to their rummage sale to be held in the parish hall today from 6:30 to 8 p. m .and Saturday from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Mrs. Kelly also stated that numerous other small articles will be sold and total proceeds from the Rotary goods will be turned over to the library fund.

Assisting Mrs. Kelly on the committee handling the project are Mrs. Ernest Ogden, Mrs. William Stair and Mrs. John O. Walker.

The Rotary Club realized nearly $1,400 from the auction sale. The Lions Club has promised $500 toward the $7,500 goal which the library is seeking in order to receive a like gift. With the $15,000 new quarters could be secured for the library, greatly enhancing its work in the community. An anonymous person has promised $7,500 towards a new building if the local library can raise a like amount by December 31.

The Future Teachers of America Chapter at Beall High School will sponsor a bake sale Saturday at the Broadway Market and will donate towards the library fund.

Numerous other groups in the community have made known their intentions of either sponsoring a project or making an outright donation.

West Virginia Educational Survey Report To Be Reviewed At Moorefield

KEYSER—Mineral County educators are endeavoring to have a representation of at least 15 public-minded citizens present at a mass meeting in Moorefield on Tuesday to hear a report on a recent educational survey to help them understand the implications of the study, and to determine just where West Virginia stands in the total school program.

E. M. Welshonce, assistant superintendent of Mineral County schools, said the meeting will be held at the Moorefield High School auditorium, beginning at 2:30 in the afternoon and continuing until 9 that night. Dinner will be served at the high school.

The Moorefield gathering, which will be attended by representatives of Grant, Hardy, Mineral, Hampshire and Pendleton counties, is one of 17 gatherings being held throughout the state. It will be under the general chairmanship of Raymond S. Dispanet, superintendent of Hardy County schools.

At the last session of the West Virginia Legislature, an interim committee was appointed to study educational needs in the state. Uppermost in the survey was the consideration of school curricula, how subjects were taught, teaching methods and attitudes of the pupils.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Dean Eston Feaster of the Department of Education at WVU, made a careful check in the mammoth project which proved rather costly and involved many people. They now feel that the citizens of the state have a right to know the facts that were discovered and therefore have planned the sectional meetings.

The report was released last October 4 and portions of it read to the joint committee on government and finance. Various sections will be outlined at the Moorefield meeting, at which a member of the survey staff and a representative of the State Department of Education will be present.

Following the public meeting, to which all interested persons are invited, recommendations will be heard as to what can be done to improve the school program in the state. Program details will be announced later.

Garment Plant Pact Studied By Officials

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Industrial Development Corporation and the Cumberland Undergarment Company Wednesday failed to sign a contract for the construction of a new plant here.

Maurice Milberg and the undergarment company lawyer, Clarence Lippold of Cumberland, were present with the agreement from New York.

Edward Ryan, city attorney, checked the document and recommended several small and minor changes which will be made after Lippold and Milberg check with the New York office.

No date has been set for the next meeting which will probably take place without public notification.

Work at the present time is progressing on the plant with all walls about two-third completed. Weather may hold up construction for awhile.

Westernport Officials Again Study Water Supply Plans For Brophytown

Atttorney Proposes Formation Of Community Company

WESTERNPORT — A delegation from Brophytown conferred with Mayor Okey E. Michael and Commissioners Wednesday relative to renewing water lines there.

Before hearing the delegation a letter was read from Horace P. Whitworth, town attorney, as follows:

"You have requested that I give you in writing my views as to the ways and means and the practibility of the future furnishing of water from your water system to those properties located beyond your corporation limits in the vicinity known as Brophytown.

"Assuming that you have a sufficent quantity of water to furnish this supply without restricting in any way your service to your own residents and that therefore you could properly give consideration to securing additional watertakers, provided the same could be secured upon a paying basis.

Urges Consideration

"In this particular case the proposition should be considered after a careful estimation of the costs of installation of the required lines and the prospective income therefrom, either at the rates now charged or at such additional rates as may be necessary.

"Since the town has already obligated itself for a very large sum of money, secured by its water improvement bonds which constitute a lien upon all property in Westernport, I am sure that securing the money to make this extension will be very difficult and perhaps impossible.

This necessarily leads to the question whether those who desire this water will undertake to provide the capital found to be necessary and upon what terms and conditions.

"I might call your attention to the fact that you have a similar situation at Bloomington where the watertakers own their own pipelines and you furnish water upon meter readings at a wholesale rate at so much per gallon and through a local company which they have formed, they distribute the water among their customers and collect the water rents from each.

"If the watertakers at Brophytown can make an agreement among themselves and cooperate in this fashion I am sure that agreement can be worked out which will be satisfactory to all parties.

"It is perfectly obvious that the present arrangements cannot continue but if there is any way, either for the town or others to put in this water system, the rules and regulations of the town under which they supply water as well as the character and installations should be applied. I am sure that the Mayor and Commissioners of Westernport do not wish to impose any unnecessary hardships upon property owners outside the corporation limits, but unless users can either directly or indirectly finance this service, it certainly is not right they should continue receiving water at the expense of the town.

"From information I have received I am led to believe that there are a number of people in Brophytown using water in various ways which they are not paying for and imposing on their neighbors as well as upon the citizens of Westernport.

"Frankly, I do not know of any way for you to correct the physically bad conditions of the pipe in this vicinity, except to replace and revamp them—in fact, establish a new system throughout that area.

Engineer Needed

"An engineer should give you an estimate of the costs of this and your present set-up, and income would give you some idea of the revenue to be gotten.

The delegation was comprised of Elmer B. Sheffler, Richard Mackley, Mrs. Claude Westfall, Harold Raines and Mrs. John Pattison.

Mayor Michael proposed that the group form its own water company and build a pipeline. They reported that at a meeting held Sunday at Brophytown, attended by 17 of the 34 property owners, 16 were opposed to the formation of a water company.

At the council meeting they were in favor of the town putting in the water line. In turn they will pay the town for it over a period of ten years, in addition to paying for the water received.

A rough estimate stated that it would take 1,500 feet of four-inch pipe and 540 feet of two-inch pipe. With fittings the estimated cost would be $10,000.

In addition to that amount, an engineer would have to be employed to make surveys and draw up specifications for bids. Fees would be $2,000.

Mayor Michael appointed Alvin Pence, water commissioner, to get estimates on the cost of laying new water lines at Brophytown and Franklin. The estimate of each place is to be separated.

Because of its poorly developed nervous system, a fish probably experiences discomfort rather than actual pain when hooked.

Chinese Pot Roast Is Exotic

You may be seeing lots of beef suitable for pot roasting these cold months, for such cuts are plentiful and attractively priced. Pot roast simmered in rich gravy until tender is wonderfully good eating, so we shouldn't tire of it.

There are plenty of ways to vary it, too. Have you, for example, tried this Chinese style method? It uses the tantalizing flavorings of Brown Gravy Sauce and soy sauce.

Chinese Beef Pot Roast

Mix 2 teaspoons salt, dash pepper, 2 teaspoons Brown Gravy Sauce and ¼ cup soy sauce; rub well into a 5-pound beef pot roast. Let marinate a few minutes.

Brown meat well on each side in 2 tablespoons butter in a heavy roasting pan. Place a low rack under roast. Add 1 cup water and ½ cup sliced onion. Cover pan tightly and cook slowly on surface heat or in a 325 degree oven for 3 to 3½ hours or until fork tender. Add more water if necessary, so as to have ½ to 1 inch of liquid in pan. Turn meat once or twice during cooking.

Pearadise-Ginger Salad

It's surprising what can be done with a few simple ingredients and a little imagination. Most housewives, for example, have the makings of this Pearadise Ginger-Cream Salad on hand all of the time. Chances are this simple salad will be greeted with exclamations of surprise and delight and no wonder, for it combines crisp red apple slices with juicy, spicy canned Bartlett pears. The flavor of both fruits is accentuated with balls of cream cheese which have been rolled in gingersnap crumbs. Of course, there's no need to mention that the flavor of gingersnaps and canned pears go together like small boys and peanut butter.

Pearadise Ginger-Cream Salad

6 canned Bartlett pear halves
2 red-skinned apples
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk or cream
1 cup gingersnap crumbs
Endive or other salad greens

Arrange endive or salad greens on individual salad plates. Wash and slice apples into thin wedges; arrange 4 or 5 on each plate. Place canned pear half atop apple slices and put ginger-cheese ball in center. Serve with choice of dressings.

Ginger-Cream Cheese Ball

1 3 oz. package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk or cream
½ cup gingersnap crumbs

Soften cream cheese, combine with milk. Divide into 6 equal portions; roll in gingersnap crumbs, making soft balls.

Steer To Steak

How much of a 1,000 pound steer is steak? It's difficult to realize but only 600 pounds of beef is realized from a 1,000 pound steer carcass. Out of this 600 pounds, only 145 pounds is actually steak . . . round, sirloin, porterhouse, T-bone and club.

Cheese Lends Flavor To Turkey

For those tag-ends of the turkey which frequently include portions the family has so far spurned, here's a delicious turkey Tetrazzini.

Natural cheddar cheese and ripe olives lend flavor to the spaghetti combination.

Turkey Cheese Tetrazzini
(Six servings)

3 cups cooked spaghetti
¼ cup butter
¼ cup each of chopped onion, green pepper
¾ cup diced celery
1 cup light cream
1½ cups grated natural cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped pimiento
1 cup pitted, chopped ripe olives
2 cups cooked turkey, shredded
Salt and pepper

Melt butter, add onion, green pepper and celery. Cook until tender. Add cream, 1 cup of cheese, pimiento and olives. Heat slowly until cheese melts. Add turkey. Meat Salads

Meat salads are a favorite main course for a ladies' luncheon or light supper. Ham, diced or cut into julienne strips, combines well with hard cooked eggs, diced cucumbers, cottage cheese or onion. Veal is often used alone or in combination with cooked ham in a meat salad. French and sour cream dressings always lend a nippy flavor to meat salad.

More Meat Facts

Always cook meat at a low temperature.

Meat should be roasted fat side up, on a rack in an open pan.

Steaks and chops cut 1 inch thick or more are best if broiled. Steaks and chops cut less than 1 inch thick may be panfried or panbroiled.

Cured meats should be kept in the refrigerator closely wrapped.

Steaks and chops should be served piping hot.

Kiddies' Kapers

For the mothers that have trouble choosing foods for their youngsters, here are a few helpful hints. Most children will like meat loaf, meat patties, lean meat, crisp bacon, frankfurters and canned meat spreads.

Deviled Ham Dip

Guests arriving for the evening? Be sure to have some high protein snacks ready. A deviled ham and sour cream dip is easy to whip up. Mix one 4½-ounce can of deviled ham with ½ cup dairy sour cream. Stir in 1 teaspoon grated onion and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Serve with either crackers or potato chips.

An annual eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon is more distant than usual.

How Do You Like Chicken

A real "wife-saver" . . . packaged frozen chicken parts. Every homemaker will appreciate the many fine qualities of this chicken . . . while making such dishes as Chicken Espagnole.

Hot or cold, in salad or to eat with the fingers? There are a "baker's dozen" ways of cooking chicken. Fried . . . in different type batters, a la king with many variations, roasted . . . with vegetable or oyster stuffing, or just about any method or idea the "chef" in the kitchen dreams up.

One thing is certain. With boxes of packaged frozen chicken parts nestling safely in the freezer, dinner is practically effortless. A note tacked to your bulletin board will serve as a reminder to take the chicken out of the freezer for thawing. Follow the directions on the package for this . . . 3 methods are given, one of which should easily fit into your time schedule. Best part comes when you open the package. There is no cleaning to do . . . no pinfeathers to singe . . . just wonderful plump pieces of chicken with lots of meat and tender skin.

Every homemaker is eager for new recipes to add to her collection. They provide variety in meals and turn complaints of "we just had this a week ago" into eager anticipation. Any night of the week why not try this recipe for a sure-fire hit with the family. Here's how to do it . . .

Chicken Espagnole

2 packages (1-pound size) frozen chicken thighs, breasts, drumsticks or wings
3 slices bacon
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Thaw chicken as directed on package. Cook bacon in large skillet until crisp; remove and drain. Brown chicken in bacon drippings. Crumble bacon; combine with soup, olives and Worcestershire sauce; pour over chicken. Cover and cook over low heat about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender; stir occasionally. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Indian Summer Salad

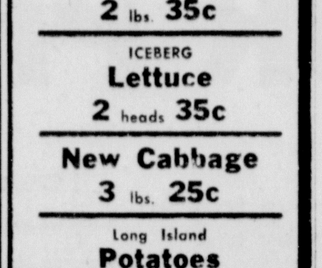

2 ripe Bartlett pears
1 cantaloupe
8 Italian prunes
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
Salad greens

Wash, halve and core pears, then cut pear halves into 4 sections. Wash and peel melon and cut 4 slices crosswise. Wash, halve and pit prunes. Form cream cheese into 8 balls. Arrange cantaloupe slices on salad greens and top each slice with 4 pear wedges. Stuff the prunes with cheese balls and place in pairs between the cantaloupe rounds. Garnish with mint leaves or watercress. Serves 4.

Special Meat Stuffing

When preparing a lamb cushion shoulder, a stuffing is an attractive flavor complement. An apple-raisin or spinach stuffing is both colorful and taste appealing.

WIFE PRESERVER

Fold sheets hem to hem and turn them about four inches over the line to avoid disfiguring and stretching by clothespins. Use one clothespin at each end and two in the middle, making sure the sheet hangs straight.

Apple-Herb Stuffing For Pork Roast

An Apple-Herb Stuffing does something wonderful to any type of pork roast. This stuffing which is a palate pleasing combination of onion, celery, bread crumbs, apples, marjoram and thyme is an excellent companion for a pork crown roast.

It's simply placed in the center o. the pork crown and roasted along with the meat during the last 30 to 45 minutes of cooking time.

If planning to serve this stuffing (dressing) with a pork loin roast, bake dressing in oven for approximately 30 minutes.

Another way of serving this dressing (stuffing) in stuffed rib pork chops. A pocket for the stuffing is made along the rib side of the chop.

Cut this way, the chop will tend to close more tightly during the braising process, thereby keeping in the stuffing.

Apple Herb Stuffing

¼ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup drippings
3 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup finely chopped tart apples
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup water

Cook onion and celery in drippings, about 5 minutes. Combine with bread crumbs, apple, seasonings, sugar and water. (Makes about 2 cups of stuffing.) Bake in center of pork crown roast or place in baking pan and bake in moderate oven (300 to 350° F.) during last 30 to 45 minutes of roasting time. Best served with pork.

Burgundy Pears With Sour Cream Dressing

Hostesses who pride themselves on unusual and sophisticated desserts will find Burgundy Pears a distinctive addition to their culinary repertoire. Yet despite its elegance, this delicious dessert can be prepared easily and ahead of time.

First and most important ingredient, of course, is the pear itself, which must be plump, juicy and shapely. For this reason, you'll want to choose the extra-fine quality Bartletts which come from the mountain orchards of Washington and Oregon.

Make sure the pears are fully and evenly ripe, then cook them gently in the syrup until just tender. Add the distinctive flavoring of the wine, then chill thoroughly before serving with sour cream which has been accented with a sprinkling of cinnamon, and you've a dessert that's impressive in its simplicity and flavor.

Burgundy Pears

4 firm ripe fresh Oregon-Washington Bartlett pears
½ cup sugar
⅔ cup water
½ cup currant jelly
¼ teaspoon red food coloring
½ cup Burgundy wine
Sour cream
Cinnamon

Heat together sugar, water and jelly until dissolved. Add food coloring. Peel whole pears, leaving stems intact. Place pears in syrup and gently simmer until pears are tender, turning occasionally to tint and coat pears with syrup. Remove from heat; add wine and allow to cool. Chill well. When ready to serve, place pears in serving glass, cover with some of the syrup. Serve with sour cream which has been sprinkled with cinnamon. Serves 4.

Popcorn Crisps

1 egg white
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 quarts popped corn

Beat egg white slightly then beat in sugar, salt and cinnamon. Spread popcorn out in large shallow pan. Pour egg mixture over corn and shake pan to coat kernels evenly. Bake in 300 degree oven for 20 minutes or until crisp. Cool. Break kernels apart. Serve with wedges of chilled ripe Oregon-Washington Bartlett pears.

ANOTHER FINE PRODUCT OF STANDARD BRANDS INC.

Modern Version Of Early American Turkey Stuffing

Early American settlers depended on corn and rice as staples. The Indians introduced them to corn, and by 1690 growing rice was an important crop in South Carolina. This recipe takes advantage of the convenience of these two staples, canned corn and easily cooked rice. Two other time-savers are the new instant minced onions and the celery seed, used for a delightful celery flavor.

There is absolutely no peeling or cutting up necessary in making this turkey stuffing! The two, corn and rice, combine delightfully to make a colorful and marvelously seasoned stuffing.

Ingredients:

- 1⅔ cups uncooked white rice
- 3⅓ cups water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 12 oz. cans whole kernel golden corn, drained (about 3⅓ cups)
- 3 tablespoons instant minced onions
- 1 teaspoon whole celery seed
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- ¼ cup water or broth

Method: Put the rice, 3⅓ cups water and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

Mix together the corn, minced onions, celery seed, poultry seasoning, black pepper, melted butter or margarine and the ¼ cup water or broth. Stir in the rice. Use immediately after mixing. (Dressing has a prominent celery seed flavor until baked.) Add salt and additional pepper and poultry seasoning to taste.

Roasting Lamb

When is a lamb roast cooked to just the right degree of doneness? Well prepared roast lamb will be plump and juicy with the outside crisp and golden brown. If using a roast meat thermometer, the internal temperature will register 175° F. for medium and 180° F. for a well done lamb roast. Lamb is always served piping hot or cold, never lukewarm.

Stew Time

It's the time of the year when a stew is the order of the day. If it's accompaniments you're looking for . . . dumplings, baking powder biscuits, noodles, spaghetti and macaroni are excellent partners for stew.

Sauce Important To Skewered Foods

Cook it on a skewer and it is sure to be popular. It is partly the drama of the spit and the perky look of the dish, but there is more to it than that. Nearly all foods cooked on skewers are first marinated in a flavorful sauce and sauced well during cooking. The food arrives at the table succulent and juicy, done to a turn.

The sauce for Shrimp a la Broche is made with a piquant blending of corn oil, vinegar, garlic and hot seasonings in mild proportions. Use the same sauce, by the way, for other skewered foods, especially for the famous shishkebab (skewered lamb and vegetables).

Traditionally, kebabs are served with steaming hot rice or a fine egg noodle or barley. Serve the rice first then let each person unstring his own skewer. Or let the host perform the ceremony much the same way as he presides over the Sunday roast.

Shrimp A La Broche

- 1 pound small mild onions
- 2 green peppers
- 2 pounds tomatoes
- 1 pound shrimp, fresh or frozen
- ½ to 1 pound mushrooms, fresh or canned
- 1 recipe Marinating Sauce

Peel and cook onions in salted boiling water about 10 minutes or until almost tender; drain. Remove seeds and stems from green peppers and cut into quarters or 2-inch squares. Cook in boiling water about 5 minutes or until almost tender; drain. Cut tomatoes in large wedges or quarters. If small cut in halves. Clean and devein the shrimp. If frozen, allow to defrost. If using fresh mushrooms, wash and remove stems, or cut in suitable pieces.

Place onions, peppers, tomatoes, shrimp and mushrooms in large flat dish. Pour Marinating Sauce over the food and let stand in the refrigerator three to four hours. Turn vegetables and shrimp several times for even flavor. When ready to cook, remove shrimp and vegetables from marinade; drain. Arrange shrimp and mushrooms on skewers alternating with tomatoes, onions and peppers, leaving about ¼-inch space between each piece on the skewer. Repeat to fill the skewer.

Grill over hot coals to your taste, about 10 to 20 minutes or longer, or cook in broiler or rotisserie. Adjust distance at top of food to heat source to about 3 inches. Turn the skewer occasionally as it grills to cook food evenly. While cooking, brush the food with the marinade to give a high glaze. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Strain marinade; cover and store in refrigerator for later use. Add more seasonings if needed.

Marinating Sauce

- 1 clove garlic
- ½ cup Corn Oil
- ¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Dash cayenne pepper
- Few drops Tabasco sauce

Slice clove of garlic into bowl. Add remaining ingredients. Stir until well blended. Pour carefully over fish, shellfish, cubed meat or vegetables to be grilled or broiled. Marinate shrimp and vegetables or other meat or fish for 3 to 4 hours. Makes about ¾ cup sauce.

Meat—Fresh And Cured

The majority of veal and lamb cuts as well as most beef cuts are sold fresh. In proportion to the dressed carcass, more pork is sold cured than fresh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (INS) — The traveler who has just returned from Moscow, still as remote as Antarctica for the ordinary tourists, finds it takes a great deal of character to refrain from practicing the wicked game of "what-you-haven't-been-there-ship?"

"What-you-haven't-been-there-ship?" is as simple in form and rules as the dreadful sport of Gamesmanship (see Stephen Potter's mischief-making book of that latter name, published by Henry Holt). Gamesmanship, of course, is the art of winning without actually cheating. A case in point is that of the weak-hitting golfer who finds himself outdriven consistently by a hearty, heavy-muscled foe. The anemic hitter, a wise gamesman, bides his time, spending it mainly in showering outrageous compliments on his foe. But at the right moment, when he needs a hole to win the two dollars, he says to the big fellow, "Ah! Now I see where you get all that power. It's that little loop you take at the top of your backswing."

Naturally, the suddenly puzzled big fellow then hits his next drive Across the River and Into The Trees (by Ernest Hemingway, Scribners).

The traveler from Moscow may find himself obliged to inflict the game of "what-you-haven't-been-there-ship?" on his friends by force, if his friends insist on living their normal conversational lives in his presence. We saw an advanced case of this three years ago in the gents saloon in the Waldorf, to which place Toots Shor, Cosmopolitan editor Jack O'Connell and I had taken Frank Conniff. Conniff was fresh back from Moscow.

For a good two hours Shor, O'Connell and I engaged in a lively sports talk, in which we concluded that there was only one thing certain in sports: the Giants and Dodgers would never leave New York. During this shrewd and animated exchange, Conniff sat brooding, tapping his fingers on the table and waving to imaginary friends. Then almost savagely, he broke in with:

"Funny thing happened to me on the way to Nikita Khrushchev's office the other day in Moscow . . ."

The sports talk stopped on a dime. He saw our furtive, darting looks, heard our nervous coughs.

"What? — you haven't been there?" he asked, raising an astonished eye. Toots whimpered some feeble excuse, but Conniff cut him off by scratching a match across his nose and lighting up a cigar (O'Connell had recently had another baby). "Well," he said expansively, blowing a cloud of blue smoke about the place, "it was like this . . ."

We never got back on.

It's like the retired artillery colonel who used to grow restless if any other subject was discussed at formal dinners. Suddenly, in the midst of a discussion on the relative merits of garden vs. potted fire-escape petunias he would roar, "Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!" and then continue, which reminds me that one day in the Argonne, the Boche opened up all around us, and . . ." And he was off.

Since returning from Moscow I've broken up some pretty dull conversations about overdue income tax returns, the health of the children, bills, bad report cards, the impending threat of an ICBM hydrogen bomb raid on New York and a few things like that by suddenly stating, emphatically, "No matter what they say, I don't believe Suslov has any chance of succeeding beyond his present role as theoretician to Khrushchev." Well, you can imagine how that livens things up!

"Sounds like Rooshian names," a child will quaver, all fear and trembling.

"What? — you haven't been there?" I'll ask, flicking cigar ashes into her curds and whey. Puts people in their place.

I have some other dingers such as, "Speaking of telephone books, I suppose you know there aren't any in Moscow?" . . . "Marshal Malinovsky was saying the other day, 'Har!'" One can only guess at the impression this special knowledge makes on people.

The only time I ever saw a "what-you-haven't-been-there?" practitioner stopped was at the 606 Club in Chicago years ago. He had halted the conversation cold on eight occasions simply by asking, "But have you ever been in China?" Finally Bugs Baer said "No," so our authority continued, "There are many misconceptions about China. For example, you probably think of the Great Wall of China as huge. Actually, I've skipped over portions of it."

Bugs looked at our man, who was built like Elsa Maxwell, and asked, "How can I get my money back from Burton Holmes?"

Valley, LaSalle Open Basketball Season Here Tonight

Ridgeley High And Romney Quint Clash

Piedmont Invades Oakland; 17 Area Teams In Openers

Seventeen high schools in the tri-state area—eight West Virginia, eight Maryland and one Pennsylvania—will launch their 1957-58 basketball season in games scheduled tonight.

The first game of the campaign in Cumberland features Valley High School's Black Knights, who were co-champions of the W.M.I. League and Maryland Class B champions last season, and LaSalle High School's Explorers on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock.

1957 Champs Play Here

Coach John Meyers' Valley quint won 20 and lost five last season and wound up the 1956-57 schedule at College Park with a nine-game winning streak. The Black Knights are not expected to pack the scoring punch that last year's team boasted due to the loss of their two big point-makers, Ronnie "Butch" Young and Johnny Johnson, who were graduated and now are playing at Frostburg State Teachers College. This year's team will be built around George Lauder and Gordon Green, holdovers from last season's classy aggregation.

Meyers will be at the Valley helm for the fifth year. His teams have won 86 and lost 29 in four seasons.

This is George Geatz's fourth team at LaSalle. His 1956-57 quint missed the .500 mark, finishing with a 10-11 record. His three teams at the North Centre street school have won 40 and lost 23.

Geatz Names Starters

Coach Geatz last night announced that Charles Imes and Richard Garlitz will start at the forward berths, Dick Winfield, center, and Van Parsons and Jim Ternent, guards. Charles Bahen and Jack Bahen also are expected to see action in the lid-lifter. Other players on the LaSalle squad are Donald "Doc" Richard, Michael Mackert, Michael Firlie and Jim Delaney. LaSalle's starting lineup will be the same that finished the 1957-58 season for the Explorers. "Hank" Winner, who played with LaSalle last season now is a member of the Valley squad.

Jim Roby and Floyd "Pete" Elliott will officiate.

Other Maryland schools playing openers tonight are Southern of Oakland, Flintstone, Oldtown, Mt. Savage, Bruce and Northern's Huskies of Garrett county. Nearby West Virginia schools making their first start will be Romney High, Keyser, Paw Paw, Fort Ashby, Mathias, Franklin, Moorefield and Wardensville. Hyndman is the Keystone State school making its annual bow tonight.

Ridgeley Hosts Romney

Three Potomac Valley Conference tilts are on tap. Piedmont's Lions, victorious over Elk Garden Tuesday, will be gunning for its second P.V.C. win when it faces Southern's Highlanders at Oakland.

Clyde Green's Romney High Pioneers are scheduled to invade Ridgeley to play the Blackhawks who whipped the West Virginia School for the Deaf in their P.V.C. opener Tuesday.

The Moorefield at Wardensville contest will round out tonight's conference schedule.

Coach Orville "Stony" Jackson's Flintstone High Aggies are billed to play the Paw Paw Pirates in Morgan county. John Thomas' Mt. Savage Indians will test Ronnie Kellough's Oldtown aggregation at Oldtown, Leonard Ritchie's Bruce Bulldogs will host Fort Ashby's Eagles at Westernport and Northern's Huskies will meet the Alumni.

Keyser Hosts Alumni

John Shelton's Keyser High Golden Tornado will tangle with the Alumni in Keyser, Mathias High is at Harman and Franklin at Marlinton.

Harry McKinley's Hyndman High Hornets will open a 22-game schedule at Hyndman with Rockwood High School's quint.

Two games are listed tonight at Hagerstown where Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown Rebels, of the C.V.A.L., tackle Greencastle High and Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs, also a C.V.A.L. entry, take on Williamsport (Md.) High School.

Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets, Maryland Class A and C.V.A.L. champions last season, host Musselman (W. Va.) High tonight.

Jesse Riggleman's Shepherd College Rams journey to Fairmont to battle Fairmont State College's Falcons in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game.

EXPLORERS READY FOR OPENER—LaSalle High School's Explorers will open the basketball season at home tonight, opposing Valley High's Black Knights, 1956-57 Maryland State champions, on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock. The Explorers have 21 games listed and are angling for another with the South Hills Catholic High School, of Pittsburgh. The squad pictured above, left to right: FRONT ROW—Jim Ternent, Donald "Doc" Richard, Dick Garlitz and Van Parsons. BACK ROW—Mike Mackert, Charles Howell, Coach George Geatz, Charles "Chazz" Imes and Jack Bahen. Dick Winfield was absent when picture was taken.

Costly Yearlings Are Duds So Boss Goes For Claimers

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — J. L. Younghusband of Barrington, Ill., has changed his mind about horses.

At the 1955 yearling sales he invested a record $302,500 for 27 colts and fillies. The Illinois sportsman found out the hard way — that all that glitters is not gold.

Here's how his top five purchases fared during 1957:

NOOR NEVER, a son of Noor-Lady Request, cost $36,000 and failed to win a dime.

ROMAN CAESAR, by Roman-Miss Tartan, comanded $24,000. He returned nothing.

ALLA-SHAN, a son of Shannon II, cost $20,500 and is still looking for his first dollar.

GEMBALA, a son of Royal Gem 2nd, did a bit better. He cost $20,000, and has returned $2,180.

SPORTY GIRL, a daughter of Olympia-Miss Porter, was picked up for $17,500. She hasn t picked up a nickel.

Now at Gulfstream Park with his stable, Younghusband has 15 hard-hitting old timers. For him the day of high-priced yearling is over.

Trainer E. L. Whyte henceforth will give much attention to seasoned claiming campaigners like Lady Elliott, My Preference, Latezia, Idle Platter, Martial, Lebanon Lad and others, all steady winners in mid-West racing for Valley View Farm, the nom de plume of Younghusband's stable.

Expensive Trip

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Shelby Price Gill of Amarillo, Texas, won't forget his 42nd birthday quickly. He observed the occasion with an elk hunting trip to Colorado and received these unwelcomed gifts from Pueblo Justice of the Peace Walter J. Christman: a 30-day jail sentence and a $150 fine for drunken driving and a $10 fine for failure to dim his lights.

Michigan Supreme Court Turns Down Bobby Layne Appeal

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 5 (INS) —The Michigan Supreme Court today refused to intervene in the drunk driving case of Detroit Lions' quarterback Bobby Layne.

The case is scheduled to be tried at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Layne's attorneys appealed to the high court for a delay after Detroit Traffic Judge John D. Watts denied a request for an adjournment until one of the lawyers completed another case.

The quarterback was arrested Sept. 17 on charges of driving erratically while under the influence of alcohol. He pleaded innocent upon arraignment the same day.

Doby Learned About Transfer In Newspaper

Says Richards Best Manager In League

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 5 (AP)—Larry Doby wasn't surprised when the Chicago White Sox traded him to Baltimore, but he was a bit chagrined that neither Chuck Comiskey, who sent him away, nor Paul Richards, his new boss, took time to tell him about it.

Doby said today he learned about the trade when his 8-year-old daughter Chris saw the story in the morning paper yesterday. Comisky hadn't told him that he would be traded and neither Comiskey nor Richards telephoned after the deal was made.

"I had the family primed for it," Doby said. "I foresaw the likelihood of a deal. They got me two years ago to win the pennant in Chicago and the team didn't win it. I guess that makes it my fault.

"I had a bad year last year. I should drive in 100 or more runs and hit over 25 home runs. I didn't do it, so Chicago let me go. The last three weeks of the season there was nothing wrong with me physically, but I wasn't used. Earlier in the season I was hurt but they kept playing me.

"I hope I can keep working for four or five more years. With Richards I should get to work regularly. I admire Paul. I think he's the best manager in the league."

Middies To Start Practice Monday

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 5 (AP)—Navy's football team, given a week off after its 14-0 victory over Army, will not start practicing for its Cotton Bowl meeting with Rice until Monday.

But one squad member is keeping busy.

He is a second-string fullback Al Swanson of West Orange, N. J., captain of the basketball team. Swanson reported to basketball practice Monday and is expected to see action in games tomorrow and Saturday before returning to his football chores.

Hits $3 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — When Bill Hartack came from fifth place in the Jamaica stretch with Promised Land to win the Idlewild Handicap in a five-horse blanket finish he became the first jockey to win $3 million in purses in one year.

The gross purse to owner Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs was $40,000 and ran money won for owners by Hartack on the year to a record $3,022,639. It was his 42nd stakes victory of the year.

Minors May Ask Congress To Re-Open Baseball Hearings

Shaughnessy Is Bitterly Outspoken

Sunday Telecasts Put Minor Leagues In Fighting Mood

By JOE REICHLER

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 6 (AP)—A threat by the minor leagues to ask Congress to re-open an investigation of big league baseball may prove a blessing in disguise, Commissioner Ford Frick indicated today.

The majors would welcome definite action by Washington permitting the big leagues to restrict televising of their games, he commented at the baseball convention here.

The subject of Congress was brought up today when the minors warned the majors that unless they abolished their plans to telecast Sunday baseball games into minor league territory, the minors would request congressional action.

Advised of the threat, Frick said:

Restrictions Urged

"Good. I hope they can get Congress to pass legislation making it possible for us to put restrictions on TV. That's what we want. If we were to try it now, the Justice Department would slap a suit on us."

Frick explained that under a Justice Department ruling, any uniform decision regarding TV or radio involving a number of clubs, or two clubs in different leagues would be open for a congressional attack.

"If it were up to me I'd issue an order tomorrow banning the Sunday telecast," Frick said. "But my hands are tied."

The minors' drastic action marked the first time in the entire history of baseball that a group within organized baseball has appealed to Congress for relief from aggression within its own ranks.

Appeal To Celler

After making a formal protest to the majors regarding their proposed Sunday TV program, and receiving nothing but a cold silence in return, the minors sent a telegram to Emanuel Celler (D-NY) chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, asking him to reopen a congressional investigation of baseball. A House sub-committee probed baseball and other professional sports last June.

President Frank Horton of Rochester of the International League, a member of the three-man committee who appeared before the National and American League body, also talked with Rep. Frank Keating (R-NY) who told him he understood the minors' problem.

"You have my complete sympathy," he was quoted as telling Horton, "and I'll do what I can to help you reopen any probe that might be necessary."

There was no reply from Celler, who was thought to be out of the country.

International League President Frank Shaughnessy, the originator of the "court threat" action, was bitterly outspoken of the major leagues. Shaughnessy and President Bob Howsam of Denver of the American Association were the other members of the committee.

Calls Majors Greedy

"I told them (the majors) that it was a case of greed on their part—plain greed," Shaughnessy said. "We let them know that unless something is done about the Sunday TV plan, we will fight and fight and fight."

Shaughnessy denied a report that the minors would agree to the Sunday TV program provided some of the revenue from these telecasts were channeled to the minors.

"We don't want their damn money and we don't want their damn TV," he said heatedly.

TV Hurting Minors

The Saturday game of the week (entering its fourth year) they have now is worth two million dollars to the majors and this has quite naturally hurt the minors a great deal. A Sunday game would just about about kill the minors off altogether."

Chicago Cubs Trade Bob Rush To Milwaukee

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP)—The world champion Milwaukee Braves tonight acquired from the Chicago Cubs righthander pitchers Bob Rush and Don Kaiser and outfielder Ed Hass in exchange for pitcher Taylor Phillips and catcher Sammy Taylor.

The trade, a straight player deal, was announced by Milwaukee Braves General Manager Quinn, here for the annual baseball meetings.

Rush, 32, who several seasons back was the top hurler on the Cub staff, has a lifetime record of 104 victories against 124 defeats. He was 6 and 16 in the last season and posted a 4.39 earned run average.

Bobcats Add Bowie State To Schedule

Game Set Saturday On Frostburg Court

Kenneth Babcock, athletic director at Frostburg State Teachers College, last night announced that Bowie (Md.) State Teachers College will replace Westinghouse Tech of East Pittsburgh, Pa., on Frostburg State's schedule in a game scheduled for Saturday at 8:15 p. m., at Frostburg.

The Westinghouse quint was forced to postpone its trip into this section because several members of the squad were out of action with the influenza.

Babcock said he was hopeful of rescheduling Westinghouse for a game early in January.

The Associated Press last night sent the following story on the Bowie State team:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Bowie State Teachers will match a spirited but inexperienced basketball team against Frostburg State Teachers Saturday night.

Milburne All-Stater

Milburne, 5-9, was Maryland all-state high school forward last year at Salisbury. Holbrook, a 5-7 guard, was also an all-stater at Salisbury. Perry is a 5-2 guard, Miller is a 5-8 guard.

Bowie lacks height this year, its players ranging from 5-2 to only 5-9. "But I don't think our lack of height will hinder us too much," Pearman said. "Our boys have an unusual amount of jump and spring.

Pearman said Bowie plays a slow break offensive with "sort of a pressing zone defense."

Lost Close Game

Bowie played its first game last Saturday, losing to District of Columbia Teachers College 73-71 in the last 35 seconds after leading 41-29 at halftime.

Bowie left the eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference in October because of travel problems in getting to distant member colleges. For the time being, it has no conference affiliation.

Pearman was a track star while attending Boston University. He's no relation to Reginald B. Pearman, former New York University Olympic track star.

Forty-seven deer were bagged by hunters in Allegany County yesterday, increasing the four-day total to 492, just 99 short of the county's six-day record of 591 established last year.

Twenty of the bucks killed in Allegany County were checked by the Maryland State Police at LaVale. This group included a 121-pound, 16-pointer which Vincent Fleegle of Corriganville brought down on Will's Mountain.

Junior Loop To Eliminate Bonus Rule

American Delays Vote On Draft

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP)—The American League today voted to eliminate the bonus rule and delayed voting on the four-year player draft until tomorrow.

The question of whether the elimination of the controversial rule would be retroactive, freeing all present bonus players from the rule, still remained in doubt, however.

The American League's interpretation is that it will be retroactive. Commissioner Ford Frick said he believes the present bonus players should serve out their two-year term.

The bonus rule stipulates that any player signed for more than $4,000 in his first year in professional baseball, is a bonus player and must be retained for at least two years by the major league club.

There are presently 17 players of bonus status in the majors.

Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, resigned as a member of the executive council due to the press of business and he was replaced by Joe Cronin, General Manager of the Red Sox. Charles Comiskey, vice-president of the Chicago White Sox, remained as alternate.

The American League club owners recessed until tomorrow.

Richmond Defeats V.P.I. Cagers, 72-62

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 5 (AP)—Richmond blunted Virginia Tech's offense with a sliding zone in the second half and, led by sophomore Butch Lambiotte, came from behind tonight for a 72-62 victory in the Southern Conference basketball opener for both teams.

It was the first college game for five Gobblers, four freshmen and transfer student Duke Rice, and the Techmen couldn't find the range in the late going after holding a four-point halftime lead.

Richmond, which warmed up for this game with two exhibitions against the Phillips Oilers played ragged ball but had the better shooting and dominated the boards, especially in the final minutes.

Lambiotte, 6-4 field general from Warwick, led scorers with 21 points, most of them in the clutch.

Lambiotte got help from 6-6 junior center Theryl Willis who scored 19. High for Tech were freshman Earl Jitterbug Gilbert of Beckley, W. Va., and Bob Ayersman of Boomer, W. Va. Each scored a dozen points in his college debut.

Dodgers' O'Malley Alarmed By Los Angeles Referendum

Hints Team Could Return To Brooklyn

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (INS)—President Walter O'Malley of the Dodger baseball club was quoted today as saying that a Los Angeles referendum on the deal which brought the team to Los Angeles may "send the Dodgers back to Brooklyn."

A referendum petition has acquired the necessary number of signatures setting up an election in which the voters will be asked to pass on a contract with the Dodgers already approved by the Los Angeles city council.

Dispatches from Colorado Springs where O'Malley is attending a major-minor league meeting said he answered "that is not an impossibility" when asked if the referendum might force the Dodgers to go back to Brooklyn.

He was quoted:

Picture Has Changed

"The picture has changed drastically regarding our intended move to Los Angeles. The $900,000 indemnity imposed on the Dodgers and Giants by the coast league is far greater than was anticipated."

He added:

"I've got to find out if the Los Angeles referendum will have any effect on the league directors. I certainly hope that it will not.

"However, as of this moment we have no definite place to play in Los Angeles that will meet minimum league requirements."

O'Malley, who is coming to Los Angeles next week to confer about a home field, said:

"The Dodgers can still play baseball in Ebbets Field next season if necessary and I certainly hope we won't be forced to do that.

"Every Dodger official will do everything possible to solve the Los Angeles problem on an equitable basis within the next ten days."

In Los Angeles, city officials were trying to straighten out the snarl created by the success of the referendum petition. Councilman Patrick McGee announced today he has a plan whereby the city of Los Angeles might avoid a referendum vote on the controversial trade of land to the Dodgers for a ballpark in Chavez Ravine.

McGee said the city council can invalidate the ordinance which it passed last October 7 approving a contract with the Dodgers.

Under the contract the Dodgers would trade Wrigley Field, the home of the old Los Angeles Angels, to the city for approximately 300 acres in the undeveloped ravine.

McGee declared that after revoking the October ordinance the council might prepare another ordinance which would be satisfactory to those opposing the Chavez Ravine deal.

He said he first would like to confer with Dodgers officials and with other councilmen before taking any formal action.

Another councilman, John Holland, suggested that the city might build a stadium in Chavez Ravine, lease it to the Dodgers and let the ball club run the concessions. He said the city should retain parking lot fees.

A petition for a referendum on the Chavez deal has acquired sufficient number of signatures to force an election.

It is expected that the city council will put the matter on the ballot at the primary election next June.

The Dodgers had hoped to have the Chavez ballpark ready for the 1959 season but this appears impossible at present.

They are undecided about whether to use Wrigley Field which holds only 25,000 persons or the 100,000-seat Memorial Coliseum which would have to be renovated for baseball purposes.

Weasels are of considerable economic importance in the farmlands where they occur. Authorities estimate they kill millions of mice and rats each year.

Mounts Win Over Elizabethtown, 75-51

EMMITSBURG, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Mount St. Marys loosed a two-minute, nine-point scoring barrage in the second half tonight to break open a tight basketball game and go on to defeat Elizabethtown Pa. College 75-51.

The game was the season's opener for the Mounts. The Blue Jays have won one and lost one.

With impetus provided by William Pensyl, who scored 22 of its 51 points, Elizabethtown pulled to within two points of the Mounts at 40-38 with ten minutes remaining.

Bill Williams, 6-foot-6 senior, dropped in 21 points on set shots to lead the Mounts.

Royals Win, 109-99

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals took an early lead and held the rest of the way to down the Detroit Pistons 109-99 in the opener of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader at Convention Hall tonight.

The Philadelphia Warriors met the St. Louis Hawks in the nightcap.

Maurice Stokes and Jack Twyman were the big guns for the Ohioans with 22 and 20 points respectively. George Yardley continued his top scoring for Detroit as the league's pace setter with 32 points tonight.

TRA Names Dedicate Horse Of The Year

Five-Year-Old Will Enter Stud In 1958

MIAMI BEACH, Dec. 5—(INS)—Mrs. Edward G. Burke's Dedicate, which will soon be retired to stud after a brilliant racing career, tonight was named the American champion—horse of the year—by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Dedicate, which earned $533,200 in four years of racing, earlier in the week was chosen handicap horse of 1957 by the TRA board of selection.

The five-year-old son of Princequillo-Dini won 12 of 43 races, including his final start Nov. 2 at Garden State. Dedicate pulled up lame after the race and will enter stud at Arthur B. Hancock's Clairborne Farm in Kentucky early in 1958.

Trained by Mrs. Burke's father, G. Cary Winfrey, Dedicate was assigned top weight in each of the handicaps in which he started during 1957.

In the Atlantic City Handicap, Dedicate finished first while racing to what appeared to be a new track record. But Stewards ruled that Jockey Eddie Arcaro was guilty of a foul and the horse was disqualified.

Thin Ice Scores At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—F. G. Riviera's Thin Ice, making good as the $5.20 favorite of the 7,048 bettors, led every stride of the featured seventh race today at Tropical Park.

Thin Ice, well rated by John Ruane, covered the mile and one sixteenth in 1:43 1/5 while defeating Mrs. E. W. King's Pursuer by 2½ lengths. Lead Scout, owned by the Dorchester Farm, was six lengths behind Pursuer while leading J. Marrine's El Hawa a length and a quarter.

Ruane hustled Thin Ice away from the gate and the three-year old gelding opened a two-length advantage by the time he rounded the clubhouse turn. He never was threatened thereafter.

Rosie Layben, $9.30 winner of the first race, and Miche Colleen, $16 victor in the second, produced a $69.50 daily double.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

Careless discarding by West provided a revealing clew today to a declarer who was both patient and methodical.

When North raised hearts, South's hand reevaluated to 19 points (16 points originally plus three for the fifth and sixth hearts). Because one of the basic changes made in the Goren system was the increase of the minimum requirements for a single raise from six to seven points, the opening bidder is permitted to bid game with 19 points. On the present hand, had South chosen to bid only three hearts, there is a fair chance that North would have considered his values too barren to go on.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace and jack as East discarded a club and South ruffed. The contract appeared to hinge on the club finesse. However, declarer was one of those players who like to postpone the inevitable until the last possible moment in the hope that his opponents might falter.

He proceeded to run down all the trumps in the hope that something revealing might happen. On the third round West discarded the three of spades. He next threw the six of clubs, followed by the eight of spades. South discarded a spade from dummy, carefully preserving the seven of diamonds. He now played ace and a low spade over to the king. When West showed out, discarding a diamond, his hand was an open book.

He had shown up with three spades, two hearts, and five diamonds and therefore had three clubs. Since he was now down to two clubs and the high diamond, it was easy for declarer to exit with a diamond from dummy and force a club return into his ace-queen.

West might have escaped his fate at the end by blanking the king of clubs, but such desperation would not have been required had his original three discards been one spade, one diamond, and one club. Declarer would not have been able to obtain an accurate count of West's hand and probably would have taken the club finesse at the end.

WIFE PRESERVER

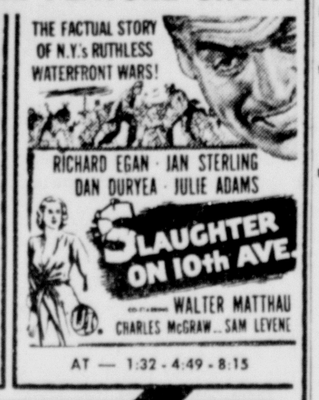

In fur-coat weather, be especially careful not to do any unnecessary sliding across seats of cars. Every extra bit of slithering about cuts down on the life of your coat. So if you're driving the car, get in on the side next to the wheel when traffic permits.

The best way to clean an electric percolator is to put a cleaning solution in it and let it "perk." A solution of one quart of water and one tablespoon soda or cream of tartar is suggested to remove rancid coffee flavor and odor.

Eden In Cornwall

LOOE, England, Dec. 5 (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden, who quit as prime minister for health reasons last January after the Suez debacle, is wintering here in Cornwall, warmest county in Britain. He and Lady Eden have taken Morvalhouse, an 800-year-old pirate port mansion.

Doctors say Eden still suffers from the liver complaint that was treated in a Boston operation.

Paw Paw Mail Delivery Contract Is Completed

PAW PAW — Because of the increase in the number of mail packages to be delivered to the train, a new system of deliveries has been inaugurated.

Bids were submitted to the Post Office Department both here and in Cumberland. Of the nine local bids and a few from Cumberland, Bernard Larkin was the successful bidder and began the delivery November 30.

Four trains must be met daily except Sunday. Number 34 brings and takes mail. Number 4 throws off mail, and Numbers 11 and 9 receive and deliver both.

Five days a week, Larkin will deliver packages by truck to the Queen City Station in Cumberland, leaving here about 5. If there are packages in excess of 50 over his load, an extra trip may be authorized by the postmaster. If the excess is 50 or under, the number will be placed on westbound train Number 9.

Deliveries to Cumberland began Monday. This is the busy season for such an operation since Christmas orders are rolling in steadily to both Avon and Consolidated plants.

An estimated seven and one-half American school children need eye care, according to a group of eye specialists.

Three Men Sought In Missing Girl Case

SYCAMORE, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP) — Warrants were issued today for three men police said they want to question in connection with the disappearance of 7-year-old Maria Ridolph.

Police Chief William Hindenburg identified them as Irvin Eugene (Peanuts) Shott, 21, and Arlis Arch Davis, 22, both of Sycamore, and Laverne Rosenstiel of Shannon, a northwest Illinois community.

Hindenburg said Shott and Davis left for Florida Tuesday, the day Maria was reported missing.

Meanwhile, some 300 volunteers continued a search today for little Maria or some clue to her disappearance.

Prewinter Storm Causes 15 Deaths

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—One of the worst prewinter storms on record moved out to sea today. It left the Middle Atlantic states to dig out from under as much as two feet of snow.

Fifteen persons died in New York, New Jersey and Maryland, most of them from heart attacks brought on by shoveling snow or battling traffic jams.

A bright sun lent aid to emergency crews digging free such hard-hit big cities as New York, Newark, Philadelphia and Washington. New York had 8,700 men toiling to clear its streets.

All snowfall records for the date were shattered in some areas during the 25 hours that the storm raged. It began Tuesday night and ended last night.

Nobody believes you're interested if you don't look it. Make sure your eyes let sparkle shine through.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

What Do Your Eyes Do For You?

Eyes, bright with response to what you are saying, inspire eloquence and wit you didn't know you had. An indifferent expression, on the other hand, can be a blank wall that stops you; and it hardly seems worthwhile to go on even if you could.

It isn't words alone that resist friendliness, rebuff good intentions, nip enthusiasm in the bud and spoil cooperation—eyes do it every day. Unfortunately they don't always mean to. Some people look uninterested, bored, unsympathetic and even hostile without knowing they do, just because their eyes seem to register such attitudes.

Let's look in a mirror for clues to what your eyes do for you—especially if you've wondered why others don't always catch on when you feel interested or friendly. Watch your eyes as you open and close them slowly. Look in one direction, then another and change expressions. See how the upper lid moves and the lower lid doesn't unless you squint or seem to lose yourself in a brown study.

Next, let your eyelids droop. There's no question about what effect this move has—you look bored and uncaring about anything. Think it over now— did the least attractive expressions in your eyes as you watched them feel all too natural? No wonder you aren't impressing people as being spirited and nice as you are if your eyes seem to deny it.

Be quite deliberate about practicing to get rid of misleading expressions in your eyes. Develop the habit of matching expresion to thought to be fair to yours and to everyone who might misunderstand you. Think of something amusing or something you're enthusiastic about and see how to use your eyes so the sparkle comes through. Look interested and remember how to repeat what you did. Train your eyes to show warmth and to say what you want to say—there might be quite a change in your life if you do.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5 (INS) — Immediately on the heels of a long distance call from Ava Gardner in Madrid to friends in New York asking them to get her the best surgeon available — Ava herself arrived in the big town. Ava's lip, cut in a spill from a horse, has never properly healed and it has made her extremely nervous.

This news comes straight from someone close to the unhappy brunette actress. Last week she was ready to keep an appointment with an eminent New York physician, but at the ast minute cancelled that visit. Now she is in the U.S.A. determined to waste no more time undergoing surgery if necessary.

She cannot make any picture until the stiff lip heals completely — but it's believed that proper medical care will cure her.

All day today Sandra Dee, the cute 15-year-old who has taken Hollywood by storm, was on the MGM lot being tested for the deb role in "The Reluctant Debutante." As of this moment she has the best chance of getting the part she wants so much. She was a knockout in "Until They Sail" at this same studio.

Pandro Berman, the producer, was cagey, but he admits Sandra is being strongly considered. How the little girl wants the role, with the opportunity to go to Europe, and to have Kay Kendall and Rex Harrison for her movie parents.

There's a nostagic feeling in the news that comedienne Rosetta Duncan, of the Duncan Sisters (Rosetta and Vivian) team, has been signed for her first straight dramatic role. Guy Madison and Andy Devine have persuaded her to accept a role in the new Wild Bill Hickok movie "Angel of Cedar Mountain."

Rosetta and Vivian have been busy since their days as "Topsy and Eva," playing the smaller night clubs. Another name from the past is Wes Barry, former child actor, now the producer of the "Wild Bill Hickok" series.

Speaking of Guy, he tells me he and his bride Sheilah and their three girls and their nurse, will spend Christmas in Hawaii.

Good to hear Merle Oberon's voice over long distance telephone, and to hear her speak with such happiness about her bridegroom, Bruno Pagliai, wealthy industrialist from Mexico. They are at the Waldorf Towers, and have been having a whirl while in New York seeing the shows and being entertained by their friends.

Said Merle, "We are going to spend Christmas in Mexico. Bruno has been away from his business for five months and has to go home. We hope to be in California in January or February."

"What about your career?" I asked her.

"My career is being Mrs. Pagliai, and running my husband's homes," she said.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A tete-a-tete pair at the Bantam Cock was Dorothy Towne, Jack Webb's ex, and her first husband Leo Pavich.

A visitor on the "Kings Go Forth" set at MGM was Lauren Bacall. Yes, she came to see Frank Sinatra and they acted as if she had never been away.

It's a date with the stork in January for Stan Kenton and his missus. She was formerly a singer in his band.

A slight correction for the interesting book "The Movies," by Richard Griffith and Arthur Mayer. I did see "Citizen Kane" before I panned the picture and producer. That's why I was so incensed.

Didn't realize how much Jack Dempsey and Jack Entratter look alike until I saw them side by side at the Mocambo at the Sallie Blair opening. Jack "D" was with Pat Tierney in Mary Morrison's party. He said he has no one set for his life story.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Edge Of Knowledge

Just when eggheads are back in style, CBS-TV happens to come up with "Conquest," a program designed to give the public a better understanding of the scientist and his work. Although the program has been in preparation for a year or so, it couldn't be better timing ,a better idea or a much better show.

"All my life," said Eric Sevareid, "Conquest's" host and narrator, "I have reported to you about the present and the known. Now I am going to report on the unknown and the future. I thought I knew the facts of life. But the facts changed when I wasn't looking. I am forty-five—not very old—but my education is already old hat. My teenage sons understand things about the nature of life and the universe that my teachers never taught me.

"A flood of discovery is sweeping down the short and narrow stream bed of human history. I'd like to swim with it. 'Conquest' itself is a try. We want to help penetrate the wall that separates the man in the laboratory from the rest of us."

That, beautifully expressed, is the theme of the show and it's the most important theme of any TV show of this or any other season. All through the first show, this idea—that mankind, far from being a knowledgeable animal, is simply on the brink of major discovery—keeps recurring.

Right at the outset was an interview with Dr. Wendell Stanley, director of the virus laboratory at the University of California, who declared: "This may sound strange to you, but in the laboratory we look upon the virus as a potential source of great good, for it is the container of man's greatest secret—the nature of life itself . . . It's no unreasonable to expect that ultimately we'll control the genetic forces of life, shaping the generation of plants, animals and human beings to come."

That certainly is a threshold and one that Mr. Sevareid certainly never heard of in his youth. Another case in point: Dr. Maurice Ewing, director of the Lamont Geological Observatory at Columbia University, declared in passing that investigation of the earth today is about at the same stage that the investigation of the properties of the atom was about 1900. "We are just on the verge of great discoveries about the origin and the evolution of the earth."

There were three major filmed segments of the first show—the first concerning the edge of life, the second Dr. Ewing's explorations of the bottom of the sea, and last and most interesting "Project Man High" in which Maj. David Simons, head of the U. S. Air Force's space biology laboratory, spent 32 hours twenty miles above the earth in a balloon.

In all of these you felt man was just on the brink of something, just the outer edge of some pretty scary discoveries. For instance, out of Dr. Ewing's findings from the ocean floor: "Our findings suggest that it could take only a few years ,not centuries or millenia, for a great ice cap to cover the parts of the earth where most people now live."

The exclusive filmed report on Major Simons' ascent to the edge of space was perhaps a little too long but it contained some great suspense. When Simons finally got into the edge of space—and there were marvelous movies of the edge of blackness with bright sunshine underneath—his language, filtered through a radio transmitter, seemed touched with exploratory wonder:

"The cloud layer, which terminates in an overhanging shelf and is so solid, gives one the feeling of being in heaven above the rest of the world. You can look down over the edge and see the poor faltering mortals. It's a strange sensation—a quiet world, peaceful, bright and dark at the same time."

The spirit of pioneering came up again at the program's close when Mr. Sevareid interviewed Dr. Lawrence Snyder, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Dr. Alan Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation. "Basic research is pioneering and creative in just the same sense as geographic exploration used to be to old timers and to musicians and poets. It's creative work on a frontier where a man does not know what he can produce or find but knows that whatever he finds will add to man's understanding and knowledge."

The next "Conquest" will be January 19 and it will, among other things, tell the story of Dr. H. Julian Allen, the aerodynamicist who, by redesigning rockets and missiles, has solved the crucial "re-entry problem," enabling objects to return to earth from space without burning up through friction with the atmosphere.

Zero Weather Encompasses Tri-State Area

Garrett Co. Roads Are Snow Packed

Zero weather was moving into the high points in the Tri-State area last night as this area dug out of the first big snow of the season.

The thermometer dipped to five above by 9 p. m. last night in Oakland and residents of Garrett were preparing for it to dip to zero by this morning.

The still cold moved into Garrett as winds died down and stars began twinkling over a blanket of snow which had packed down to six inches.

In Cumberland, the thermometer stood at an unofficial 26 degrees at 9 p. m. and predictions called for a clear and cold night, with 12-degree lows in some sections of the county.

The big snow failed to affect Allegany County schools, although several buses arrived late yesterday morning. Attendance was about normal.

Road crews who worked to clear highways of Wednesday's snow were getting a break, as the State Roads Commission said no equipment was out in either Allegany or Garrett counties.

Some Garrett roads, however, were still packed with snow, and Maryland State Police were advising motorists to drive cautiously.

Mild weather is predicted for today and cloudy and mild temperatures with showers—which might turn to snow flurries—tomorrow.

Saving Claimed For Proposed Phone Plan

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP) — The Public Service Commission's chief auditor said today the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. would save $581,000 by extending the areas which could be handled as local calls.

The telephone company, in asking the PSC for permission to raise rates more than 8 million dollars, said that if the rate boost were granted, it would increase the areas on local calls.

The testimony on the savings was offered by E. Edward McLean. He said the figure was provided him by the telephone company.

Under cross-examination by the company's attorney, John F. Preston Jr., he added that the new local service would necessitate the company's taking on a 5 million dollar expansion and alteration program.

The company applied last summer for a rate increase to bring in $6,800,000 more in gross revenue. The PSC hearings on the request were begun in October, then recessed while the opponents studied the company's proposal. When the hearing was reopened yesterday, the company applied for authority to hike the rates another $1,400,000 because of wage increases granted within the past month.

McLean told the commission that the savings in extending the area of local calls would come in eliminating the need for handling toll and message tickets.

Wilfred T. McQuaid, people's counsel, objected to the company's tacking on the $1,400,000 figure to the original $6,800,000 request because, he said, it introduced an entirely new approach to the case.

Woman Seeks $2,500 Damages

Mrs. Hazel C. Hemmis, 19 Fifth Street, yesterday filed a $2,500 suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for damage to her 1953 model automobile which allegedly was damaged September 3 while parked in front of her house.

Attorney William L. Wilson filed the suit for Mrs. Hemmis against Frank J. Zawaski Jr., 215 Fifth Street.

Mrs. Hemmis charged that although her car was parked lawfully in front of her house, a car operated by Zawaski ran headon into her vehicle. Besides the damage, Mrs. Hemmis said she incurred towing and storage charges and lost the use of her automobile.

Brothers Charged In Non-Support Of Their Mother

A criminal information charging two brothers with non-support of their aged mother was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

Named in the information were Harold W. Valentine, RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, and Lester T. Valentine, Oldtown Road.

The information states that their mother, Mrs. Minnie C. Valentine, is destitute of means and subsistence and unable by reason of old age, infirmity and illness to support herself. It charges that on November 20 the brothers refused and neglected to provide their mother with the necessary shelter, food, care and clothing although they are possessed of and able to earn the money to provide her support.

They are scheduled for trial at 10 a. m. Saturday in Circuit Court.

Evaluation Of Parent-Child Groups Starts

Second Session Due In January

The first outside evaluation of the new parent-child study program in the Allegany County public schools was undertaken this week by Jacob Goering of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools, said that Mr. Goering was in the county Tuesday and Wednesday to observe the new program.

This is the first year in which parents were enrolled in the program at the start of the school year and are expected to attend all of six afternoon or evening sessions conducted by a paid leader.

Mr. Goering first met with the staff of the pupil personnel department Tuesday morning. That afternoon he saw the parent-child study group at West Side School in action under the leadership of Mrs. Juanita Isiminger.

Wednesday morning the evaluator met with all of the parent-child group leaders and the pupil personnel department staff. That afternoon he visited Cresaptown School to see the parent-child study group in action under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Adams.

Another evaluation of this new program will be conducted January 29 by Mr. Goering and Dr. John Kurtz, also of the Child Study Institute.

Meanwhile, Mr. Higgins reports he is hopeful that a general meeting of all parents in the program and all other interested parents can be held sometime in March. It is hoped then to have Dr. Daniel Prescott, head of the Child Study Institute, as speaker.

There are 23 parent-child study groups in the county and some 580 parents are enrolled. Some of them will continue to meet periodically until as late as March.

Mother, 2 Boys Given Hearings

Two area youths, 12 and 13, who twice were apprehended in the past several weeks for breaking into dwellings and stores in Mt. Savage and Frostburg, were given a hearing yesterday in Juvenile Court.

The mother of one also was tried in the court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her children.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said after the hearings he took no action in the case of the two boys, who had previous records of similar crimes. The court hopes to work out a solution to the problem, and a decision was deferred until January, the magistrate said.

In the case of the mother, the magistrate said she was found guilty of the charge and was given a suspended 60-day sentence in Allegany County Jail.

Magistrate Anderson said the sentence was suspended for the woman on the condition that in the future she does not leave her children under the care of anyone under 16 years of age after 10 p. m.

Psychologist Says Van Horn Upset, 'Empty'

Viewed Women As 'Cannibalistic'

TOWSON, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Robert J. Van Horn, who has pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity in the slaying of his wife, viewed women as cannibalistic, a state psychologist testified today.

The psychologist, Dr. Michael H. P. Finn of Springfield State Hospital, said the 53-year-old defendant became anxious when women badgered him.

Finn was a witness for the defense late in the fourth day of Van Horn's trial for murder in the death of his wife, Bernice. She was beaten to death last June 1.

The psychologist testified he examined Van Horn three times during October at the Baltimore County Jail at the request of the State Department of Mental Hygiene. Van Horn "had many personality difficulties," Dr. Finn said.

"Empty, Shallow"

He was "empty, shallow, confused," he testified, and had "feelings of impotence both in sexual matters and in his dealings with people."

In addition to showing poor judgment, Dr. Finn said, the socialite lumber executive saw women as "voracious, cannibalistic, domineering." His dealings with women caused Van Horn "a great deal of nervousness and anxiety," the psychologist said.

Finn also testified: "If he was severely badgered and the nervousness became too severe, he would begin to be upset and reach a point where he would lose contact with reality."

The trial was interrupted for three hours when testimony by Van Horn's father, 79-year-old Charles W. Van Horn, apparently caught the prosecution by surprise.

The elderly Van Horn, who retired in 1949 as executive vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad testified his son, Robert, had a peculiarity as a boy. "During the time when Robert was about 13, and we were living in Ohio, he had a tendency to drop to his knees like he was praying," he said. "This peculiarity continued through all of one summer, and happened quite frequently."

Had Tuberculosis

Charles Van Horn said his son suffered from tuberculosis about 30 years ago and was a patient at a sanatorium in Asheville, N.C., where he received complete bed rest for nine months.

Robert Van Horn was devoted to his wife, the father said. "Robert was very kind and always inclined to be helpful to people," he said.

The father also testified he had loaned money to his son to go into the lumber business and that he repaid that loan and other loans in later years. "I was always available to him when he needed financial assistance," he said.

Charles Van Horn, brother of the defendant and general passenger agent for the B. & O. Railroad in Washington, testified that while attending high school in Grafton, W. Va., his brother was "a good athlete on a very poor (football) club."

As a result, he testified, Robert was "subject to a great deal of punishment and was knocked unconscious on a number of occasions."

Child's Condition Is 'Unchanged'

Potomac Valley Hospital officials said the condition of Dawn Sadler, two-months-old girl who was injured in an automobile accident, remained "unchanged" last night. The baby is in critical condition from injuries received in the accident on Route 50 near Keyser.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Sadler, Salem, W. Va., are in "good" condition at the same hospital.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles Oliver, who investigated, said the Sadler car collided with an auto driven by Tony Oliver, Arlington, Va. The Sadler child sustained a skull fracture in the collision.

The group includes personnel people from several firms.

Storage Building Permit Is Issued

William M. Wilson, operator of the Wilson Welding Supply Company, McMullen Highway, yesterday obtained a permit from the Allegany County assessing department for construction of a $6,000 storage building.

The 40 by 40 foot steel building will be constructed on the west side of McMullen Highway in the Amcelle Acres subdivision of Election District 7, south of Cresaptown. Completion is expected by February.

Treatment Plant Dedication Is Planned Today

This city's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant will be dedicated to the health of the people of Cumberland this morning.

The ceremony will begin at 10 a. m. and will be held in one of the as yet unused greenhouses of the plant on Offutt Street Extended.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, will be master of ceremonies and Rev. Marius Elsener, OFM Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, will give the invocation.

Dr. Edward Davens, deputy director of the Maryland State Department of Health, and Robert T. Regester, who designed the plant and served as consulting engineer during its construction, will speak.

Also speaking will be Charles S. Catherman Jr., president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will pronounce the benediction and two marches will be played by the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band.

Some 200 state, federal, area and city officials are expected to attend the ceremony and tour the primary sewage treatment plant. A buffet luncheon will follow.

Five-Year Vote Review Opens

The City Registration Office this week began checking the records of its 12,878 voters so it can remove the names of those who have not voted during the past five years.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the review of the books will be completed by the end of the year.

Notification cards will be mailed to those whose names are removed so they may have an opportunity to get back on the books.

The number stricken from the books may be considerable since city officials are elected for four year terms and failure to vote in one election can mean the loss of voting privileges.

There may be one little hitch in the notification procedure. The cards will be mailed to the voter at the address listed on the city records, and he may not get the notice if he has moved and has failed to notify the office of the new address.

Legion Sponsors Oyster Supper

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will sponsor an oyster fry tonight at 7 o'clock for members and friends of the post. Russell Paupe, post adjutant, said tickets are available at the post home and club rooms.

Judge Denies Habeas Corpus Writ To Man

Paul O'Donnell, this city, who was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail November 21, yesterday was denied a writ of habeas corpus by Chief Judge George Henderson in Circuit Court.

Judge Henderson states that O'Donnell apparently has misunderstood the ruling that the judge made in the case of Eugene Oldaker. Oldaker had been convicted in the City Police Court under the City Code five different times for drunkenness. The next time he was tried and convicted in the Trial Magistrate's Court under the charge of being a habitual drunkard, in violation of Section 145 of Article 27 of the State Code.

Oldaker applied for his release under the writ of habeas corpus, which Judge Henderson granted because Section 145 requires five convictions under the state law within one year before anyone can be convicted under the state law of being a habitual drunkard. Convictions merely under the City Code are not referred to in Section 145 of Article 27.

In his petition to Judge Henderson stated that a person has to receive four sentences on a drunk charge in City Police Court and then on the fifth arrest must be tried in Trial Magistrates Court on the state charge of being a habitual drunk. Judge Henderson writes in his two-page opinion that O'Donnell's interpretation of the law is wrong and is the reverse of what he claims.

Judge Henderson goes on to explain that O'Donnell was not sentenced for being a habitual drunkard. He was charged by Officer Joseph F. Harvey with being drunk in a public building, another phase of Section 145 of Article 27 of the Code, and with being noisy and profane on the public streets. He was arrested on November 20 and was convicted and sentenced the following day by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

After four more similar convictions of drunkenness in the Trial Magistrate's Court, and not in the City Police Court, he could be sentenced as a habitual drunkard to serve six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Judge Henderson writes that there is no merit whatever in O'Donnell's petition for a writ of habeas corpus and his request is refused.

Unusual Light Is Sighted In Southeast Sky

Several persons last night saw a brilliant object in the southeast sky. One report said it roughly resembled a meteor, and another said it seemed to break up and fade out.

A Frostburg woman said she saw the object at 10:10 p. m. as it crossed the southeastern sky going eastward and losing altitude. A Cumberland man said he saw the object at the same time, and that it seemed to break up while in level flight.

Several other persons telephoned the Times-News to report sighting the object. Reports differed as to its color. Some said it seemed red, turning to white, and others said it was a brilliant white light, and was elongated in shape.

State Police had no reports of the sightings.

Geology Team Reports

Due to weather conditions which will affect the stream flow in this area in the form of storage in snow and ice, no attempt will be made by the local Geological Survey team to compile a review of stream conditions for the next two or three months.

According to E. H. Mohler Jr., engineer in charge, a review for November has been compiled and was possible with a considerable degree of accuracy, due to fairly open weather.

During November, precipitation in Cumberland as reported by the Weather Bureau totaled 1.73 inches, or .45 inch below the November average. The daily average temperature here was 44.6 degrees, which was 1.5 degrees above normal average for the month.

The observed mean flow of the North Branch Potomac River at the Wiley Ford gage during the month was 294 cubic feet per second or 190 million gallons per day, which is 49.7 per cent of the 28-year November average for which records have been compiled.

The daily flow varied between 214 cubic feet per second or 138 million gallons on November 13, and 458 cubic feet per second or 296 million gallons on November 16.

A seasonal decrease in the storage in Savage River Reservoir caused an average increase of 27 cubic feet per second or 9.2 per cent of the flow of the river at Cumberland.

Union Will Meet

The executive board of Local 568, Iron Workers Union, will meet Saturday at 6 p. m. and a membership meeting will follow at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Man Arrested Here In Bad Check Case

Another To Be Tried Saturday

A man suspected of passing bad checks was arrested yesterday afternoon by City Police, and another man charged with false pretense in the writing of fraudulent checks petitioned for an immediate trial.

Detective Joseph H. Stitcher said last night he picked up a man who gave his name as William J. Tilton, 35, of Fort Carson, Colo., when three checks the man allegedly passed to local merchants bounced.

Detective Stitcher reported local police have received complaints that checks written by a "Joseph Kruson" on a local bank were being returned to merchants marked "no account" at the bank.

Investigation revealed that Tilton, who told police he arrived here two weeks ago and sought a job at the Big Savage Refractories, apparently was passing the checks under the name of Kruson.

A Joseph Kruson is the superintendent of the Big Savage Refractories, Detective Stitcher stated.

An account also was opened at another institution by a "Joseph Kluson" who deposited two checks, which are still being investigated, the detective stated.

Bank officials have told police eight or 10 checks signed "Joseph Kruson" have been reported ranging from $20 to $47.

Tilton is being held in City Jail and will be questioned further today by City Police and at the state's attorney's office, Detective Stitcher said.

The city detective said he arrested Tilton about 3 p. m. yesterday in a room in a local hotel, later discovering a deposit book and several blank checks from the two banking institutions.

Meanwhile, Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty said John Brown Arrison, 47, of Pittsburgh, who had been held in Allegany County Jail on $2,000 bond since October 30 on the false pretense charge, petitioned for an immediate trial in Allegany County Circuit Court on criminal information. His trial has been scheduled for 9:15 a. m. Saturday before Chief Judge George Henderson, Mr. Getty stated.

Keyser Hunter Still Serious From Wound

A Keyser man remained in "serious" condition last night at Potomac Valley Hospital there after being wounded in a hunting accident Wednesday.

Hospital attendants said Howard K. Barricks Jr., 25, of 29 Gilmore Street, Keyser, was shot in the abdomen while hunting with his brother-in-law, Andrew Simpson, 25, also of 29 Gilmore Street.

Claude Rice, West Virginia Conservation Commission officer, said the two men were hunting on the Simpson farm about five miles east of Keyser on West Virginia State Route 46.

Simpson told Rice that he and Barricks separated and that he fired at what he thought was a deer in a heavy clump of pines. Simpson was using a .30-calibre rifle, Rice stated.

The projectile struck Barricks and ranged downward through the abdomen, he added.

After discovering he had shot young Barricks, Simpson summoned other hunters and the wounded man was removed to the hospital by ambulance from the Keyser Volunteer Fire Company.

The West Virginia Conservation Department reported yesterday that the Keyser accident brought the total of dead to three and the wounded to nine in hunting mishaps during the first three days of the West Virginia hunting season.

The latest casualties included Barricks, Carl Church, 24, of White Sulphur Springs, shot in the left hip Wednesday while hunting in Greenbrier County; and Leonard Ira Channell, 73, of Becky's Creek, Randolph County, who was killed near his home Wednesday. Two other hunters have died as a result of heart attacks since the season opened Monday, the report stated.

Seniors Express Opinions On Economic Questions

Attitudes of high school seniors on a variety of economic questions are shown in a three-part questionnaire which was filled out for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce by some 650 seniors in six local public and Catholic high schools.

The first part of the questionnaire contained 10 multiple choice questions concerning beliefs of the high school seniors.

On two of these questions 80 per cent or more agreed on one answer while in four others more than 50 per cent but fewer than 67 per cent agreed on one answer. In three other questions, each of three possible choices got approximately the same support from the 650 students.

The other question in the first part of the questionnaire concerned opinions on the degree of regulation for eight major industries.

Eighty-one per cent of the students believe that after they have got a job they should be free to make as high a wage as they can get. Only 15 per cent said the government should place a top limit on wages and salaries.

The other overwhelming percentage was 80 per cent believe that as young people leave high school or college they should be free to work anywhere they please. Twelve per cent checked that they should be required to have a job in one of the areas in which they have had some training. A mere six per cent said they should be placed by the government in the job for which the government employment agencies think they are best suited.

Other majority choices were the following four:

63 per cent believe that when they are ready for a full-time job it is their responsibility to find a job for themselves, 62 per cent look forward to a job with moderate income, little responsibility, good retirement and other security factors, 54 per cent believe that when there is a vacancy in a business or industry business men should be free to select any applicant for the job and 53 per cent believe competition will keep prices and production at reasonable levels.

Second choices in these same four questions were the following:

36 per cent believe that when they are ready for a full-time job, business and education should provide guidance and placement service for them, 29 per cent look forward to a job with above average income and considerable responsibility but somewhat less security, 39 per cent think that when there is a vacancy in a business or industry, business men should be required by law to hire the first applicant possessing the skills necessary to the job, regardless of race or religion, and 29 per cent believe the best way to have enough goods produced at fair prices is for the government to establish production quotas and fix prices.

On the question of the surest way to raise wages there was an almost even split among the three choices. Thirty-six per cent said the worker should join a labor union, and 32 per cent each said the worker should produce more and the government should guarantee annual wages.

Thirty-eight per cent of the high school seniors suggested that individuals should join a health insurance group to share health costs, while 34 per cent said it is up to every individual to take care of his own medical needs, and 26 per cent favored the government making medical services available to everyone with costs met by taxes paid by everyone.

Concerning the three-way choice as to which has done most to raise the American standard of living since 1900, 46 per cent checked better machinery and more efficient management, 33 per cent said government planning and regulation of the economy and 20 per cent endorsed organization and expansion of labor unions.

In general on the question of regulation of major industries more students seemed to favor companies with government regulations. Only in the case of radio and television, with 65 per cent, did a majority say they should b free to operate as they believe.

Here's how they rated each of the industries, with free to operate as they believe best listed first, private companies with government regulations second and government owned ond operated third, in each case:

UTILITIES (electricity, gas)—35 per cent, 46 per cent and 17 per cent; banks and trust companies—22 per cent, 45 per cent and 29 per cent; steel companies—35 per cent, 45 per cent and 12 per cent; oil companies—38 per cent, 46 per cent and 10 per cent; coal companies—50 per cent, 35 per cent and seven per cent; railroads—33 per cent, 42 per cent and 20 per cent; radio and television—65 per cent, 27 per

Air Force Needs One More Recruit

Local Air Force recruiters say yesterday that one man may be enlisted immediately for service with the Air Force, as an additional December quota of one has been assigned here.

This month, the quota was filled early from a waiting list compiled in November, but one more man may now be recruited, they explain.

Two men enlisted this week and were sent to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, yesterday to begin their basic training. The two were Marvin Glenn Cutter, of Midland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cutter; and Bernard A. McTaggart, of Short Gap, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McTaggart.
